ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP)—Allied forces are pushing into Tunisia, but reports of fighting at Bizerte, as broadcast by radio, are premature, said a special communique tonight from Lt.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters.

2 French Leaders Arrive in Africa

LONDON (CP)—A Reuters news agency report detailed "from the frontier" said tonight that Pierre Etienne Flandin, one-time premier of the French Republic and later foreign minister in the Vichy government, had arrived in Allied-occupied French north Africa.

Giving usually well-informed quarters as its source of information, Reuters said Pierre Pucheu, a former Vichy minister of the Interior, also had arrived in north Africa.

Flandin was an advocate of friendship with Germany before the war. Pucheu rose to influence at Vichy after the fall of France and was considered a supporter of collaboration with Germany.

Free French Refuse Darlan Recognition

LONDON (CP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle and the Fighting French committee which he heads announced officially today they were "taking no part" in Allied negotiations with Vichy representatives in North Africa.

The statement followed a conference between Gen. de Gaulle and Prime Minister Churchill. It added that the Fighting French would not accept decisions made by the British and American military leaders in North Africa "should the negotiations result in arrangements which would in effect confirm the Vichy regime in North Africa."

De Gaulle and the committee issued this statement:

"Gen. de Gaulle and the French national committee announce that they are taking no part whatsoever in and are assuming no responsibility for negotiations in progress in North Africa with representatives of Vichy."

"Should the negotiations result in arrangements which would in effect confirm the Vichy regime in North Africa such decisions could obviously not be accepted by fighting France."

"The union of all French territories overseas in the struggle for liberation should be achieved in conditions consonant with the will and dignity of the French people."

ADVISERS SENT

The Prime Minister's meeting with the Fighting French leader follows the announcement that British diplomatic advisers had reached North Africa to help clear up the confusing situation arising after Darlan's one-time collaborationist and Vichy defence chief, had been entrusted with French civil interests.

From Vichy came a broadcast in the name of Marshal Petain declaring that Darlan had been dismissed from all public functions and all military commands. This was in contradiction to Darlan's own contention that actually his authority came from Petain.

The Fighting French are known to be cool towards recognition of Darlan, who, they say, failed France at a critical time and owes a debt to the French people which he can never repay.

Darlan, with the co-operation of United States military officials who found him in Algiers, has announced that he is taking over French interests in North Africa.

He has named Gen. Henri

Honore Giraud, the former prisoner of war whom the Germans found too slippery to hold, as army chief in north Africa.

Some Allied governments here have expressed belief that recognition of Darlan was purely a military expedient to expedite an armistice with the French forces that otherwise might remain loyal to Vichy and that he would be supplanted by Gen. Giraud or some other French leader "whose loyalty to the Allied cause is unquestionable."

The Times of London, commenting on the "Darlan affair" today, said:

"As a matter of plain reporting few people at the present stage like the granting of status to a man who... often proclaimed the need to collaborate with the enemies of Britain, America and France itself."

"No doubt his status is only temporary, for if it were more, care will have to be taken lest his leadership should grow in France where Darlan has for long periods been the second most disliked man, and in other occupied countries."

"A temporary status might have its uses in expediting a broad armistice which all Allies desire, leading to the setting-up of solid authority."

'Hank' Rowe Invited To Ottawa Ceremony

Gunner "Hank" Rowe of Victoria will be among nine Canadian soldiers who were awarded decorations for their conduct during the Battle of Dieppe Aug. 19 who will get their medals from the Governor-General at a special investiture at Ottawa Dec. 3. ### Russians Strike In Surprise Move On North Front

MOSCOW (AP)—With a frigid, wintry wind sweeping across the steppes, the Red Army again beat off German attacks within besieged Stalingrad, advanced slightly in the Caucasus and, in a surprise move far to the north, snatched a "place of great tactical importance" from the Germans on the Volkhov front between Lake Ilmen and Leningrad, the Russians announced today.

Russian troops broke into the German-occupied community in an unidentified sector of the Volkhov front, forcing the Germans to withdraw, and then held it against all counterattacks, the Soviet midday communique said.

BATTALION DESTROYED

"About one battalion of infantry was wiped out and war material was captured," the communique reported.

The action seemed to indicate the Red Army planned to take advantage of the German high command's preoccupation with the new front in north Africa with winter jobs at the long German line in Russia.

After a period of fierce fighting within Stalingrad during which the army newspaper Red Star said, the Germans gained only "over literally mountains of their dead," the action there again subsided Sunday.

NAZI CLAIMS

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts, AP)—The German high command today claimed German troops in the Caucasus had destroyed "two" encircled enemy fighting groups and repelled attacks with heavy losses to the Russians.

Additional blocks of houses were captured in Stalingrad, the communique claimed.

In the Volkhov region south-east of Leningrad, Russian attacks were said to have collapsed in German defence fire.

Sweep Over Nazi Centres

LONDON (CP)—U.S. fighter planes attacked German soldiers and German installations in occupied Europe today, and all the planes returned. Maj.-Gen. Carl Spaatz, chief of U.S. air forces in Europe, announced.

Japs Murder Filipinos Freely On Slight Pretexts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Japanese military authorities were reported by an official American observer today to have imposed an iron rule on the Philippines and Malaya, shooting without trial anyone who ventures into forbidden zones.

Summarizing in the military review of the army's command and general staff school observations during the fighting on Luzon, the observer, who was not identified, said the mere presence of a civilian on a cleared road meant death.

"Civilians found in the vicinity of Japanese transport parks, headquarters, munitions dumps, military telephone lines, unless they have a specific authorization or trial," he said. "Malayan and Filipino civilians found walking, cycling or motoring on roads which had been ordered cleared for the passage of Japanese troops or transportation were summarily shot. It is reported that groups of civilians as large as 100 or more were thus dealt with."

Platinum Restricted

OTTAWA (CP)—The Prices Board today announced it had halted the use of platinum in the manufacture or assembly of a wide range of jewelry after Nov. 15.

Britain Loses Submarine

LONDON (AP)—The Admiralty Sunday night announced the loss of the Tallisman, one of the few submarines boasting a victory over an enemy U-boat. The ship is overdue and must be considered lost, the Admiralty said.

Lett Coming to Coast

VANCOUVER (CP)—Brig. Sherwood Lett of Vancouver, one of three Allied commanders of the Dieppe raid, is expected to reach here at the end of this week to spend his leave with his family. He returned to Canada at the weekend with several other Canadian army officers, most of whom came back as instructors. Brig. Lett was severely wounded in the Dieppe raid.

23 Enemy Ships Sunk By U.S. In Great Battle

WASHINGTON (AP)—A smashing victory over the Japanese in the Solomon Islands, with 23 enemy ships destroyed and seven others damaged in the greatest naval battle of the war, was announced today by the U.S. Navy.

Smashing into a Japanese invasion fleet bent on reconquest of the southeastern Solomons, American warships, with the aid of planes, in three days sank one Japanese battleship, three heavy cruisers, two light cruisers, five destroyers and eight transports loaded with Japanese soldiers, destroyed four cargo transports found beached on Guadalcanal and damaged a Japanese battleship and six destroyers.

This was accomplished, the navy announced, with the loss of two light cruisers and six destroyers, the only American naval units reported sunk in the action.

Japs Seen Fleeing From Battle Scene

On the morning of Nov. 15, the navy communique said, American patrol planes found the Japanese forces fleeing northward away from the battle scene, and there have been no reports of further action.

An impending struggle of tremendous scope for possession of the strategic Guadalcanal-Tulagi area was indicated, the navy said, when aerial reconnaissance early this month disclosed a heavy concentration of Japanese warships, transports and cargo vessels in the New Britain-Northwestern Solomons region.

Nov. 10 it became evident the expedition was under way in force, the navy reported, with enemy naval units approaching the Southeastern Solomons from the north while other detachments, including many transports, moved southeastward toward Guadalcanal from Rabaul and Buin, New Guinea.

Aircraft of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command, was of great assistance to the American naval forces both before and during the sea fight, the navy said, with army bombers making repeated and successful attacks on enemy invasion fleet units at Rabaul and Buin.

2 Battleships Headed Jap Forces

With a spearhead composed of two battleships of the Kongō class and other warships, the Japanese attacking force reached the Guadalcanal area in the early morning of Nov. 13, intending, the navy said, to bombard American positions ashore preliminary to a large-scale landing from the numerous transports moving toward Guadalcanal from the Buin-Shortland area.

As the bombardment force approached the island in three groups, it was engaged by American warships and a savage fight at close range developed.

It was during this engagement, the navy said, Rear-Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan, formerly President Roosevelt's naval aide, was killed in action.

During the furious night battle, said the communique, the Japanese appeared to be confused by the unexpected resistance "and during the latter part of the battle two of the three Japanese groups were firing at each other." Enemy fire ceased soon afterward and the Japanese withdrew from the battle, retiring northward.

Damaged Japanese ships remained in the area, however, and during the day Nov. 13 these were attacked continuously by American planes.

Jap Transports Escorted By Warships

Late in the afternoon a large Japanese fleet, containing at least 12 transports under heavy warship escort, headed toward Guadalcanal from the vicinity of Bougainville, again intent on putting troops ashore on Guadalcanal.

Shortly after midnight enemy warships bombarded the American positions on Guadalcanal as a preliminary to the proposed landing, but later, as the transport group approached the island, it was smashed by air attack, at least eight of the enemy transports being sunk.

Remaining transports of the group, however, continued toward Guadalcanal.

No Details of Second Close Duel

The night of Nov. 14-15 produced another close range fight between American and Japanese warships in the Guadalcanal area. Details of this action have not reached the department.

Four enemy cargo ships were found beached at Tassafaronga, about seven and a half miles west of the American-held air base on Guadalcanal, the morning of Nov. 15. They were attacked by air and by artillery and naval gun fire and all were destroyed.

The smashing of the enemy fleet brought the officially announced total of Japanese losses in the Solomons to 35 ships sunk, five probably sunk and 71 damaged—a total of 111 ships sunk and damaged.

United States has lost 24 ships sunk and at least five damaged, those including two aircraft carriers and three cruisers.

No Negotiations For P.G.E. Yet

OTTAWA (CP)—Revived proposals for completion of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway in British Columbia to connect Prince George and Vancouver, referred to by Representative Warren Magnuson in Seattle Friday, have not reached the negotiation stage, it was learned here today.

Canadian officials responsible for joint planning with the U.S. government, questioned concerning a Seattle dispatch quoting Mr. Magnuson, would not confirm his report that negotiations had opened.

For many years there have been discussions looking toward the possibility of the Canadian government taking over this road, which starts some 30 miles north of Vancouver and stops about 70 miles short of Prince George.

Costly engineering works and bridges would be necessary to close the gap at the Vancouver end, it was understood.

International Plan On Dried Fruit Use

OTTAWA (CP)—The External Affairs Department announced today an agreement has been reached by Canada, the United Kingdom and the United States on the movement of dried fruits during the 1942-43 marketing season, so as to meet the full requirements of the armed services and give equitable treatment to civilians.

The agreement was to be announced simultaneously by the combined food board at Washington.

NAZIS DO ABOUT-FACE AS ALLIES PUSH ON—As increasing Allied land, sea and air forces roll on in the Mediterranean area, the Nazis have begun to pull in their horns according to reports which have the Axis evacuating positions in Bizerte and Tunis, in Tunisia, after originally throwing land and air reinforcements into the territory. Allied fliers continue to threaten enemy islands and supply routes from Italy and Libya while American and British armored units converge from east and west on Tunisia and western Libya. The French fleet? It is reported still in Toulon.

Rules on Letters To War Prisoners Given By Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The Defence Department today said information of value to the enemy has been found in letters mailed in Canada to German-held prisoners of war, demonstrating that "the Canadian public stands in need of education to what news is permissible to the men taken at Dieppe."

Anything which would help the enemy has been removed from letters to Canadian prisoners of war, the department said, but this has entailed returning some letters to the senders and a great deal of work in making deletions in others.

Rommel's Men Between Bengasi And El Agheila

CAIRO (AP)—Marshal Rommel's broken army—cut down by 75,000 casualties and captives—sped westward in the Libyan desert as far as El Agheila, beyond Bengasi, Sunday, while British forces occupied the landing ground at Martuba and strafed and bombed the Axis forces for miles along the coastal road.

Rommel's forces were spread out from Bengasi to El Agheila, but the great mass of his remaining trucks and motorized equipment apparently was centred around El Agheila, some 400 miles east of Tripoli and 150 miles southwest of Bengasi.

(Without giving a source, Reuters news agency in London said Rommel was reported to be in Munich, where he had been called on the carpet by Hitler.)

While the Allied fighters and fighter-bombers harassed the bedraggled Africa Corps in Libya, long-range fighters, probably from Malta, struck out ahead of the British 8th Army and destroyed six large German planes on the airfield at Tunis, where Axis reinforcements are being landed.

Some of Rommel's forces have not yet passed Bengasi and apparently are still in danger of capture, if indeed a sizeable portion of his remnants are not cut off, the communiqué indicated. The coastal area between Bengasi and El Agheila, a few miles to the east, were reported under attack from the air Sunday.

BENGASI RAIDED

A large explosion and fire followed a British raid on the port of Bengasi, it was reported. But the main aerial attack on the retreating army was centred between Bengasi and El Agheila.

With the occupation of Martuba the British 8th Army was approaching the chain of hills known as Gebel el Ahdar which screen the bulge of the Bengasi coast. The Allies thus gained an important advanced base for their planes to pound the retreating Axis.

Rommel left 75,000 Axis soldiers behind in graves, hospitals and prison camps when he fled 500 miles from his original position at El Alamein, Egypt, to the point where his dusty transport trucks today approached the swamps of El Agheila.

Even there, on the road between Bengasi and El Agheila, they could not shake off the persistent horns of the Allied air forces, which continued to strafe and bomb the hapless survivors.

180 MILES BEHIND

The pursuing British forces, harried by problems of supply and the necessity of clearing up some of the Axis wreckage, were reported some 180 miles behind the Axis army Sunday.

The most recent official total on the number of Axis casualties was given in London Sunday by Prime Minister Churchill. (German military sources in Berlin indicated that Rommel was planning to make a stand soon, and DNE, German news and propaganda agency, said the main part of the smashed army has reached prepared positions, there is a possibility Rommel is planning to make a stand in the swampy El Agheila region, where he stopped another British army in 1941.)

Japs Falsely Claim More Ship Sinkings

WASHINGTON (AP)—New claims of the Japanese high command of having sunk eight United States warships, including three aircraft carriers, in the Oct. 26 action off the Solomon Islands, today were branded "false for the most part" by Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information.

"As far as I know, our loss was one carrier and one destroyer, as previously announced by the navy," Davis said. "I have every reason to believe the navy is telling me the truth."

Damage to American fleet units in the naval-air battle currently raging in the Solomons are probably will not be made known until the action finally is broken off, Davis said.

"This is a continuous hit-run affair and we naturally can not inform the enemy of any losses while the battle is going on," Davis said.

The navy has stated officially that losses have been suffered by both sides in this new and apparently determined effort by the Japanese to recapture the vital Solomons positions.

Airplane production in terms of pounds has gone up 150 per cent within the last three years.

FAMILY PROUD OF GEN. CLARK—Mrs. Mark Clark, left, wife of Maj.-Gen. Mark W. Clark, leader of American invasion forces in Africa, and daughter Ann, shown with the family pet, Pal, agree, like everyone except the Axis, that Gen. Clark did a fine job of beating the Nazis to the punch. For his work of clearing the way for the invasion and during the invasion itself Clark was promoted to lieutenant-general.

Today's WAR NEWS Analysis

The following article by Paul Sanders substitutes for the daily article by Dewitt Mackenzie, who is en route to a war zone and will resume his column at an early date. Sanders is an Associated Press news specialist on Latin-American affairs.

By PAUL SANDERS

NEW YORK (AP)—Nowhere was the swift blow against the Axis in northwest Africa more applauded than in Latin America, where the bolshoi stand of the Argentine and Chilean governments was shaken.

Argentine and Chile are the only Latin-American countries which maintain diplomatic relations with the enemy. But Chile is edging closer to a break, and Argentine President Ramon S. Castillo has been forced to make several gestures to quiet a redoubled popular outcry against the Axis.

Chief argument of the South American isolationists has been that the Axis might win. The timid protest to fear an enemy invasion across the South Atlantic.

FEARS DISPELLED

African developments shot that argument full of holes, and the South American neutrals appear to know it. Chilean President Juan Antonio Rios sent President Roosevelt a message hailing the Africa move as "tending to guarantee the security of the western hemisphere." He pledged his government to continue its crack-down on Axis agents and push production of war materials.

Foreign Minister Enrique Guinazu of Argentina sent a polite message expressing "solidarity and interest."

U.S. Admiral Killed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States navy announced today that Rear-Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan, former naval aide to President Roosevelt, had been killed in a night action in the Solomon Islands, where he was serving as commander of a cruiser force.

Indian Dies in Crash

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP)—An inquest has been ordered into the death of George Jim, middle-aged Kilgair Indian, from injuries suffered Saturday night when a car in which he was riding with Ed J. Williams, 25, another Indian, crashed into a telephone pole. Both men were removed to Coqualeetza Hospital, where Jim died Sunday morning.

229 Britons Killed In October Raids

LONDON (CP)—Britain's air raid casualties in October were 229 killed or missing and 370 injured, it was announced today.

Corresponding totals for October last year were 262 killed and 361 injured, but in October, 1940, during the Battle of Britain, 6,335 lost their lives and 8,690 were injured.

U.S. Casualties

WASHINGTON (AP)—Announced casualties of the United States armed forces now total 48,956. In a recapitulation today, the Office of War Information said the total included killed, wounded, missing and prisoners of the army, navy marine corps, coastguards and Philippine scouts since the outbreak of war, but not casualties in the French North African campaign.

SEATTLE (AP)—Lawrence Fisher, weather bureau meteorologist here, reported today that 1.89 inches of rain fell in Seattle during the 24-hour period which ended at 8:30 a.m. Saturday. The downpour was the heaviest in the last five years, he said.

Canada's Exports

$100,000,000 In War Supplies Sent to Russia

WASHINGTON (CP)—Canadian shipments of war supplies to Russia total $100,000,000, with tanks alone making up half that figure, Munitions Minister C. D. Howe said here today.

Here to attend the first meeting of the Combined Production and Resources Board since Canada was elected to full membership, Mr. Howe said Canada will reach peak wartime production in 1943.

He said manpower shortages are approaching for the lumbering industry, base metal mines and steel mills, but, by and large, Canada is getting up with the use of women in war plants.

Canada, he said, is spending in excess of 50 per cent of her national income on direct war effort. The output of munitions is divided roughly as follows: Thirty per cent to Canadian forces, 50 per cent to British theatres of war, including Russia, and 20 per cent to the United States and Pacific battle zones, including China.

Production in 1942 will reach $2,500,000,000, and in 1943, $3,500,000,000, covering the whole field of war supplies, from planes, tanks and ships to small arms ammunition and from chemicals and steel to vast quantities to base metals, the minister said.

BIG SHIP PROGRAM

One million tons of merchant shipping will slide down Canadian ways this year and the 1943 program calls for 1,500,000 tons. This is in addition to the destroyers, corvettes, minesweepers and other naval vessels being constructed on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and along the Great Lakes.

As an indication of the importance of this latter program, Mr. Howe said 45 per cent of all the escort work in the Atlantic, between North America and Great Britain and Russia, is done by the Canadian navy in Canadian-made ships.

Canada will turn out its 500,000th war vehicle this year. Only 11 per cent are being retained for Canadian forces, the remainder being shipped overseas to every theatre of war, but particularly to the Middle East.

Nine types of aircraft are being built in Canada, the monthly rate of production being 400. The 1942 production involves the expenditure of $209,000,000, but, largely due to a general changeover from trainers to combat planes, with emphasis on big bombers and flying-boats, the 1943 program calls for the expenditure of $385,000,000.

EXTENSIONS PLANNED

Mr. Howe said he expected there would be many changes in Canada's production program as a result of his conferences with Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the U.S. War Production Board, and Oliver Lyttelton, the British minister of production, his co-members of the Combined Production and Resources Board. He expected the Canadian program could be brought into closer conformity with the strategic needs of the United Nations as a whole, not only in the production of finished munitions but of raw materials as well.

Long Ocean Haul For Beer Protested

TORONTO (CP)—Rev. Dr. R. J. Mutchmor said today his protest against shipment of beer to British forces in Egypt and the Near East was "wholly against the folly and waste of the 18,000-mile haul plus the 18,000 (miles) return voyage when beer is available for north Africa from areas much closer than Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal."

Dr. Mutchmor, who is secretary of the department of evangelism and social service of the United Church of Canada, issued a statement in reply to Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, federal minister of trade and commerce. Mr. MacKinnon had said in a statement last week that the beer was supplied at the request of United Kingdom authorities.

The United Church secretary said in his statement that he had previously suggested to Mr. MacKinnon that beer could be sent to north Africa from such points as New Orleans in the United States, from Britain or from South Africa.

Dr. Mutchmor charged that thousands of tons of war material "are piled high on railway sidings and on railway yards... because of lack of shipping. The needed tools which Churchill wants to finish the job are rusting in Canada while huge beer shipments go forward regularly."

Alcan Highway To Bering Sea

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. — After inspecting Alcan Highway in the vicinity of this Yukon River outpost, Governor Ernest H. Gruening of Alaska said that United States Army Engineers and the U.S. Public Roads Administration had done a "superb job of construction." He also stated that he favored extending the road immediately all the way to the shores of Bering Sea.

"I am very much impressed and gratified at the speed with which the army engineers and the public administration have worked," the governor said. "They have done a superb job of construction. When certain additional highway routes are constructed and the present route is converted into an all-year permanent highway, we will have a splendid transportation system to Alaska."

"I also want to add that I favor extending the present road immediately from Fairbanks, all the way to the shores of the Bering Sea."

As a guest of Brig.-Gen. James A. O'Connor, commanding the Northwest Service Command, Governor Gruening drove over several long stretches of the new road and inspected it from the air. Today, on his way to Edmonton, Alberta, he was flown along the route of the highway to its southern terminus at Fort St. John, B.C., by the Army Air Force Ferry Command.

The governor is on his way to Washington, D.C., from Juneau, capital of Alaska, to confer with President Roosevelt, Secretary Ickes, Secretary Stimson, and other federal officials on Alaska problems. He said great strides had been made in the defence of Alaska.

Windstorm Lashes Southern Oregon

REEDSPORT, Ore. (AP)—A furious storm which levelled trees, blocked highways, disrupted communications and injured at least one man swept over this southern Oregon coastal area Saturday.

George Weatherly, a U.S. coast-guardian, was hurt when a tree fell on the cab of his truck, pinning him inside. Fellow guardsmen worked an hour and a half to extricate him, and had just got him free when another tree toppled and demolished the truck. His left leg was crushed.

Scores of motorists marooned by blocked highways were sheltered in tourist cabins and private homes here. Bus traffic was halted Saturday noon. Observers said terrific gusts blew down 50 and 100 huge trees at a time. All southbound traffic was halted here.

The storm was general over western Oregon. In Portland, telephone lines were torn down and electric power services disrupted, but there were no reports of injuries.

Kill 5,000 Japs

Plan Conscription For Reserve Army

OTTAWA (CP)—Compulsory service in the Reserve Army was understood today to be under active consideration.

While there are a number of questions relating to it which have yet to be settled, its adoption in principle may come at any time, informed sources said.

The classes believed likely to be affected are:

1. Single men in the age groups liable to call for active army service under the National Resources Mobilization Act—19 to 40 inclusive—who have been medically examined and found in categories "B," "C" and "D," making them ineligible for active army service;
2. Single men in category "A" who have been called for compulsory service but whose training has been postponed because they are key men in essential industry;
3. Married men.

Some time ago Defence Minister Rae told there was no political or legal obstacle standing in the way of compulsory service for the reserve. The two sources of legal authority for its application are the Militia Act and the National Resources Mobilization Act. Under either men can be required to serve part-time in the reserve just as they can be required to serve full time in the active army, officials said today.

For months past the reserve has been carrying on active recruting campaigns in an effort to bring all units up to full war strength. Many reserve units have reached full strength by the voluntary recruiting method, but many others are still short of men.

One of the problems to be settled, when and if compulsion is decided on, is the method of selecting the men to be called. The reserve army is not interested in men who live at a distance from units, and it was said farmers are not likely to be affected to any great extent.

It is possible the names of the men who are declared eligible for service in the reserve in each area may be put in a hat and the number of names required may be drawn. If instead of a lottery system a selective system should be chosen, the names might be turned over to the officers commanding units requiring men. These officers could then select the men they consider most likely to fit into their units.

Under the intensified training program now in effect through-out the reserve army, men are required to attend training parades two evenings a week. A two-week camp during the summer and occasional Sunday or weekend manoeuvres.

They draw pay at the basic rate of $120 per day for a private soldier and are provided with meals when on day-long parades.

How Seizure of North Africa Shortens U.S. Supply Lines

Occupation of French North Africa by U.S.-British forces has chopped thousands of miles off Allied supply routes to the Mediterranean front. New bases at Casablanca and Algiers are 9,000 miles closer to the U.S. production front than the Egyptian battle area, reached via South Africa. If the Axis is driven from Libya, these shorter supply lines may feed second front bases all along the Mediterranean's southern shore—potential jumping off point for an Allied invasion of Nazi-held Europe.

U.S. Celebrates 7th Anniversary Of Philippines

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt, discussing the status of small countries set free in a postwar world, said it is essential that they have a period of "training for independence" before arriving at complete statehood.

That was the history, he said in an address on the seventh anniversary of the Commonwealth of the Philippines, of development of the island commonwealth, and he added:

"The pattern which was followed there is essentially a part and parcel of the philosophy and the ideals of the United Nations."

Mr. Roosevelt spoke by radio on a Sunday program with President Manuel L. Quezon of the Philippine Commonwealth, President Manuel Avila Camacho of Mexico and others.

The American President spoke of "our grim determination and of our supreme confidence that we shall drive the Japanese army out of the Philippines—to the last man."

Referring to the complete attainment of Philippine statehood under the Independence Act, Mr. Roosevelt said he and Quezon, in conference last week, had agreed on the establishment of a joint commission to work out means of preserving the stability and security of the Philippines.

"I like to think that the history of the Philippine Islands in the last 44 years provides in a very real sense a pattern for the future of small nations and peoples of the world," Mr. Roosevelt said. "It is a pattern of what men of good will look forward to in the future—a pattern of global civilization which recognizes no limitations of religion or of creed or of race."

"But we must remember that such a pattern is based on two important factors. The first is that there be a period of preparation, through the dissemination of education and the recognition and fulfillment of physical and social and economic needs. The second is that there be a period of training for ultimate independent sovereignty, through the practice of more and more self-government, beginning with the local government and passing through the various steps to complete statehood."

"Such training for independence is essential to the stability of independence in almost every part of the world. Some peoples need more intensive training and longer years; others require far less training and a shorter period of time."

President Quezon said the decision of the Filipino people to place at the disposal of the United States not only their army but "everything we had" when war came "was the seasoned fruit of a wise and far-sighted policy, of the meeting of minds and the friendly working out of problems, that have characterized our association."

Engine Works Blasted

Genoa Hit Again; Axis Coast Raided

LONDON (CP)—Home-based R.A.F. bombers attacked Genoa Sunday night, making their second attack in three nights and the fourth this month on the north Italian naval base and port.

"Good results were seen," the air ministry announced.

Coastal command craft were reported to have hit a medium-sized Axis supply ship off the Norwegian coast Sunday.

In neither the North Sea foray nor the 1,500-mile round trip to Italy was a plane lost.

Atmospheric conditions over Genoa were described as fine.

"The weather was good and the attack was concentrated," it was stated today.

Genoa has been blasted again and again to cut its value as a source of Axis strength in the north African fighting ashore and afloat.

The Sunday night mission marked the third time the R.A.F. had hammered Genoa without a loss.

ENGINE WORKS HIT London commentators expressed belief the British bombers had concentrated again on the Ansaldo works, which builds engines for warships.

In the last previous raid, Friday night, four-motored home-based bombers smashed at Genoa in a concentrated attack. Several Canadians with the R.A.F. took part in that raid. Genoa had been attacked also on the nights of Nov. 6 and 7.

Sunday night's Genoa bombing was the first operational flight for Sgt. John Hirst of Stonewall, Man., tail gunner in an R.A.F. Halifax bomber squadron but a member of the R.C.A.F.

The tall, fair-haired 22-year-old gunner, tired from the long flight to Italy, told an intelligence officer it was "a very peaceful trip."

"There wasn't as much flak as I had expected," he said. "The Alps looked pretty good, but I didn't like them as much as the Rockies. As we were one of the first to attack Genoa there wasn't a lot to be seen, although some fires were just starting."

"I should have liked to have seen our bombs go down, but I was too busy keeping my eyes on the sky. Now I'm looking forward to my next trip."

Hirst joined the R.C.A.F. almost two years ago, straight from school, and trained at Trenton, Ont., Brandon, Man., Calgary and Fingal, Ont. He flew with his commanding officer to Genoa.

(Today's Italian high command communique said "further very large damage" was caused by the raid at Genoa and that four persons were killed, 23 injured.)

2,750,000 British Homes Destroyed in Raids

LONDON (CP)—Herbert Morrison, Minister of Home Defence, said Sunday night 47,000 people have been killed in air raids on Britain since the war began, 56,000 have been injured and 2,750,000 houses had been destroyed or damaged.

In a civil defence day talk broadcast over the BBC he paid tribute to the "indomitable resistance" of civilians, and said history will record them as the "spearhead of humanity on the forward march."

Londoners, he said, stood up to the blitz for 57 nights, "but when the enemy had done its worst, they and their country were still carrying on unbeaten, full of work and fight."

"I've learned the value of PREPAREDNESS"

ONE sure thing that my training as an Air Raid Warden has taught me is the importance of being prepared. I don't know that enemy bombs will ever drop in my sector. I do know that only preparedness can prevent unnecessary suffering if they do.

"It's a lesson that has made me think. Wartime threats to my home and loved ones will pass. The chance that my family may someday be left to carry on alone will remain. Without something to replace my earnings, they'd be in a tight spot indeed!"

"So I've done the only thing a man in my position can do. I had a Life Insurance representative work out a plan, within my means, that would give them a guaranteed monthly income in case I die unexpectedly."

"It's a plan that I can expand as my income increases and that's what I aim to do. I've removed a threat to my loved ones that is just as real as high explosives and incendiaries and probably far less remote. I'll never be caught without as much Life Insurance as I can afford."

Strange Case of Darian

ONE POINT ABOUT THE POLITICAL situation in North Africa must be puzzling to the people of France as well as to millions in the United Nations. The German-controlled Vichy radio, announcing that it speaks for Marshal Petain, declares today that Admiral Jean Darian no longer retains any authority as a military commander or as a public official. On the other hand, Darian insists that actually his authority to take charge of French interests in North Africa comes from his old chief; and he intimated last night that whatever the aged Marshal may say should not be heeded "because he is unable to let the French people know his real thoughts."

Snap judgments in these times are dangerous. But it is obvious that much has yet to be explained about Darian's political and military somersault. During the last two years he has nursed a bitter phobia against Great Britain; he has used the tragic battle of Oran early in July, 1940, to point his barbs at France's former ally. He used purple language to denounce the attack on and occupation of Madagascar—heaping opprobrium on the United States by implication—while he labelled Britons as "highway robbers" and condemned Anglo-Saxons in general. And less than a month ago he was assailing the Allies for what he called their intentions of invading French West Africa at Dakar. This is but a small part of the Darian record; he has unblushingly hounded Hitler and Ribbentrop and Nazi misdeeds in occupied Paris. Now he has been a visible rift between him and arch-collaborationist Laval. This is the same Admiral Darian who said the "Germans are more generous and more understanding of the needs of humanity than the English."

Nothing in the publicized record of Darian suggests that he is a man to be trusted; his political opportunism and scheming for power antedated the outbreak of the present war. He fooled no progressive element in France. About the only sentiment which stands to his credit is his frequent declaration that under no circumstances would he surrender the French fleet to the Germans. But what are the Fighting French under General de Gaulle, the great majority of the French people who have grown to hate Darian, going to feel about this extraordinary development? A high principle is involved here upon which, or so it would appear, some light should be thrown before incalculable damage has been done to the de Gaulle cause. Judgment naturally must be withheld in the meantime.

Everybody's Duty

UNDER THE PUBLISHED REGULATIONS for Victoria's dim-out no particular hardship or inconvenience should be experienced. Minor irritations may have to be suffered; but the point to be remembered is that the course decided upon by the competent authorities is considered to be in the public interest. Their conclusions are based on military requirements. That ought to be sufficient for every law-abiding citizen whose natural desire is obviously to confuse the enemy in every possible way.

Upon the A.R.P. warden's of this community will devolve a considerable part of the responsibility for the carrying out of the regulations. These men and women for many months have been giving of their time and talents in order that Greater Victoria shall not be caught unprepared in the event of an emergency. To them already a debt of gratitude is owing. Under dim-out conditions, however, their voluntary service will take on a new significance. On this account, if for no other reason, they are entitled to every consideration by the public in whose interests they are making not a little sacrifice. We bespeak for them every courtesy as they carry out their self-imposed duties.

Officers of the law likewise will find their job no sinecure. Darkened streets in the coming months will be an invitation to unruly elements who do not understand their obligations to society. The public will applaud the uniformed custodians of the peace in taking such salutary action as sheer disregard for the new edict may require. There is much open defiance of speed and traffic laws even in daylight. A few examples of such conduct in the dim-out hours would be an effective cure. These are serious times.

Lord Bennett's Innuendo

VISCOUNT BENNETT DECLARED IN A speech in Toronto the other day that during his tour of Canada he had been asked repeatedly why, after four years of war, the men of the Canadian army in Britain had not been in action. "We have," he said, "an army with or without adequate equipment, with or without adequate reinforcements—I don't know. But the people are asking questions and want to know why the Canadian army has been for the most part idle these four years."

A woman writes a letter to the Toronto Star protesting what she calls these "disparaging" references to the Canadian army overseas. "Lord Bennett, having achieved a title, has evidently attained an eminence from which he looks down loftily on Canada and things Canadian," she writes. "His elevation to the peerage has not, evidently, resulted in a gain either in good taste, or good sportsmanship, as evidenced by the shabby innuendo cast at Canada's army in Britain; which, by the way, was scarcely calculated to enhance his reputation either as an ex-Canadian or a new Britisher."

Mr. Gillis Purcell, general superintendent of the Canadian Press, who was attached to General McNaughton's staff in England until he lost a leg in manoeuvres and was returned to Canada, replied to Lord Bennett in a speech at Hamilton at the end of last week. He recalled that the Canadian army from the beginning had been trained for special purposes, one of which was to meet any invasion attempt on England. Now, he said, with the invasion probability lessened, it has been publicly stated that the Canadians are being reserved to form the spearhead for the invasion of Germany when the time comes, and the fact that Canadians were not sent with the United States and British forces to North Africa makes it more definite that this spearhead role is to be theirs.

General McNaughton explained the role of the Canadians in Britain when he said some time ago that they were "standing on guard in Britain, because the best authorities in the land, including the Prime Minister of Great Britain, has said that was the task which we should do." Mr. Mackenzie King has repeatedly said that Canadian troops have been available to go to any theatre of war and "if the British government wanted them anywhere else at any time than guarding the isles, that is where they would have been."

If a still more convincing answer to Lord Bennett's innuendo were called for, it was given by Mr. Churchill when, in addressing the Canadian House of Commons, he said: "The Canadian army in England has chafed not to find itself in contact with the enemy, but I am here to tell you that it has stood, and still stands, in the key position to strike at the invader. . . . The Canadian government has imposed no limitations upon the use of the Canadian army, whether upon the continent of Europe or elsewhere."

Her Role Difficult

ONE HAS ONLY TO GLANCE AT THE map to understand the difficult and delicate strategic position in which Sweden finds herself. She is completely surrounded by war—war on sea, on land, and in the air. But this Scandinavian nation need feel no shame at the part she has played thus far. On the contrary, she has preserved a high degree of genuine neutrality under extremely trying conditions, and she has taken no special pains to restrain her newspapers from speaking their minds as the Swedish public has watched with horror the behaviour of the Nazis in neighboring Norway.

Incidentally, new light is thrown upon the controversial topic of Sweden's wartime trade with Germany by figures compiled by Tidningarnas Telegrambyrå, the leading Swedish news agency. Accepting these at face value, and there is no apparent reason not to do so, it would not seem that the Scandinavian neutral is giving a great deal of real aid to the Nazis, notwithstanding the precarious position in which her geographical location and her relative weakness have placed her. Sweden is getting more commodities from Germany than she is exporting to the Reich, measured in money. But Swedish imports include dividends, amortization, and other nontrade items. So it is not possible, from the data presented, to get a completely accurate picture of what is happening. As far as can be told, however, Sweden is sending less iron ore to Germany this year than in any year since 1937, and less than the Reich has the right to ask under current trade agreements. Lumber and pulp and paper are going to Germany at less than a third of the average rate for the decade preceding the war. No arms or munitions are being sent. The export of charcoal pig iron has increased.

The Swedish minister to the United States points out, moreover, that Germany is sending seven times the overall value of iron and steel products to the Scandinavian country than she is able to import. In other words, Sweden exports raw materials and imports finished products, which have a higher monetary value per ton. It would nevertheless be foolish to suppose that Hitler is showing generosity to his little northern neighbor; if the exchange appears to be against the Reich, it is only superficial. Germany is getting what she wants most at the best bargain she can drive. And, under existing circumstances, the United Nations cannot share in Sweden's trade for the obvious reason that Allied ships are not in control of the approaches to Scandinavia.

In the Blood

WORTH CONSIDERING IN RESPECT of women in war work is the case of Mrs. Etta Rowe, an American mother with three children. She is the granddaughter of a veteran of Gettysburg, the wife of a veteran of the Marne in the first Great War, and an aunt of four men now in the United States navy. She herself is a welder employed by shipbuilding wizard Henry J. Kaiser; and 60 cents out of every dollar she earns she is putting into United States bonds. She is what one might justifiably term a well-qualified candidate for the class of All-American Woman War Workers. No doubt she would find many opposite numbers in Britain's war industries and with similar associations with the armed forces. But that does not detract from Mrs. Rowe's unique distinction in her own country.

That the politicians are ahead of the people is an optical illusion—as in the case of the runner who is almost a lap behind on a circular track.

EXPLANATION AT LAST

IT NOW APPEARS that the total confusion in the management of Canadian manpower is not an accident but part of a calculated plan. This we have on the authority of Grant Dexter, whom I take to be the most reliable political reporter in Ottawa.

Mr. Dexter writes that the government is letting all those concerned in the manpower controversy "stew in their own juice." Out of this culinary process, apparently, a new dish will shortly emerge.

Now it is very important to understand this. It is the first real light we have had on the manpower problem since it began to grow serious last spring. The trouble, as Mr. Dexter sees it, goes back to the army. No limit has been placed on the Canadian army and, for all we know, it will continue to expand indefinitely.

Mr. Howe saw the danger of this when he spoke in Parliament last June. He said that Canada could not expand its army and its war industries indefinitely and sooner or later a choice must be made between them; and he made a long and careful argument to prove that, when our Allies have plenty of men, and we could not supply more than a small army anyway, we could contribute most through the production of weapons. He did not advocate any reduction in our present plan of army expansion. He merely warned that it could not go on and on.

But Col. Ralston, who is not going for the army and is a man of highest character and courage, flatly denied Mr. Howe's analysis of our manpower problem, and brushed it aside as not serious. Thus Parliament beheld the legend of cabinet solidarity brutally smashed before its very eyes, but Parliament was too old and experienced to be surprised at this. Cabinets are never solid, they are always at war though they generally manage to hide it in public.

CRISIS DEEPENS

THE BREAK having occurred in Parliament—and almost entirely ignored in the press in the rush of other events—nothing more happened. And the manpower crisis deepened. Finally it was made known that production was dropping in steel, copper, coal and timber, which are the very foundation of weapons production. Clearly we are heading for a breakdown in manpower in Canada. Yet the government is not moving.

To avoid a breakdown the government must do one simple thing. It must decide how much of our manpower is going into the fighting services, how much into war industry, how much into civilian industry and how much into agriculture. It must ration manpower between these four essential services. It must fix limits on each. Until that decision is made there can be no manpower plan. There can be no way of avoiding a breakdown when it is suddenly discovered that one of the essentials lacks men—as coal, steel, copper, timber and agriculture already lack them.

To make this decision the government must limit the size of the army. That cannot be avoided. This is not to say the army must be reduced, or that its growth must be stopped. But a final limit must be fixed, as it has been fixed already in Britain and the United States. But Mr. King has fixed no limit. Why? Mr. Dexter at last reveals the reason.

CANNY CALCULATIONS

MR. KING is avoiding a breakdown in national unity, which means unity between the two great races of Canada. That is the reason for the present inaction. For if Mr. King were to put a limit on the army now he would be accused instantly by all conscriptionists of trying to avoid the necessity of overseas conscription. It would be said that he dared not impose overseas conscription and yet could not get soldiers without it and that, therefore, he was curbing the expansion of the army to avoid trouble for himself, to placate Quebec. And as a new conscription cry developed in English-speaking Canada a counter-cry would develop in Quebec and we would have all over again the acute political crisis and national upheaval which almost smashed Ottawa last June.

Therefore, Mr. King waits. He waits until the people at large see the necessity of placing limits on the army. When the people see this clearly enough, when the demand for a curb on the army is strong and widespread enough, the curb will be applied, not before. For then it can be applied without raising the conscription issue, without raising the racial issue. The changed policy can be eased in, without serious trouble.

REACTION

ALREADY MR. KING is getting the reaction he expected. You can see it in the very places where he was denounced last spring and summer for not increasing the army by conscription. The very papers, the very industrialists who were most bitter then are saying now that they meant something else entirely. They never meant by overseas conscription that the army should be increased. They meant that everyone should be put by conscription in the right job. This is a very respectable idea but, speaking with respect, it is not what most of them meant last spring. Last spring they meant a bigger army.

Mr. King will not bother about water over the dam. He will be glad to receive the support of his old enemies when it comes time to fix limits on the army and on the other essential services. With infinite cunning he will weld all these forces into the shape he requires; and when the manpower crisis gets bad enough he will do something. This is not a very nice way to do things. It nauseates many Canadians but it may be better than the alternative of a family row in the nation. It is too early to be sure yet. But the day of decision is just about at hand.

Escape From Execution

ARREST!

One of the most dramatic escapes from France, was told in a letter which reached the Fighting French Information Service in Ottawa from Brazzaville, capital of Free French Africa.

The young Frenchman was arrested by the gendarmes in Brest, as he was attempting to escape from occupied France to England, to join the Fighting French forces.

"For 36 hours," he writes, "the Nazis left me sitting in a chair, with my hands tied behind my back. Once in a while, they gave me a dry biscuit. After hours of questioning, they sentenced me to death, because they found a revolver in my pocket."

"Sentenced to death—and I with a wife and six children! How does it feel to be condemned to die? Well, believe it or not, my first thought was of the movies. How did film stars manage their escape from prison? Scenes from war pictures flashed through my mind."

ESCAPE

While awaiting the day of execution, he thought of one plan after another. Then one day he had the luck to fall in with a French woodcutter who also wanted to join the forces of General de Gaulle. They arranged a plan of escape, as the woodcutter piled his loads of wood outside the prison window.

The next morning, as the German guards were having their breakfast, the woodcutter quietly released the prisoner, and they both took refuge in the home of a friend.

As soon as their escape was discovered, the alarm was sounded throughout Brest and the surrounding countryside. Sentries were posted everywhere, while the Germans searched the town for him.

For days he remained in the garret—waiting. Desperately anxious to reach Vichy, he eventually managed to reach the town with the help of a Polish refugee, who offered to loan him his car. "But," pointed out the escapist, "do you know what that means? If they arrest me they'll take you too."

ENGLAND

Once in Vichy, after many adventures, he learned that the only way he could leave France, so as to reach England eventually, was to join a Vichy regiment in North Africa. He signed for a three-month engagement.

After his three months were up he managed to buy a small open motor boat and set out for Gibraltar with two other men and a French woman. When the motor went dead they put up a sail. When the wind slackened they rowed. The girl, he said, insisted that the men take most of her water ration.

English officials could hardly

MR. HEPBURN AND LABOR

Ben Cleuch in Toronto Star

(Written just before Hepburn's Retirement as Premier)

It would now appear that Mr. Hepburn's changed attitude to labor is not just due to a desire to embarrass Mr. King, or to preserve a united front to win the war. In his address to the American Federation of Labor convention, he said, "I believe that the future peace of this world is only secure in the hands of labor and the great masses of an organized society." To exercise such power, labor, obviously, must be in control of the government.

This stand really puts Mr. Hepburn in opposition to his own party. So, if his fellow Liberals take his statement seriously, and have not sufficient courage to expel him, the really honorable thing for Mr. Hepburn to do is to resign and join a party that holds such views—the C.C.F. or the Communist party. Moreover, he could not expect to receive financial support from his previous sponsors if he is going to throw in his lot with labor. From his present associating with Tim Buck and other members of the banned Communist party, this party would seem to have his preference. The C.C.F., in view of his past record, would, I presume, insist on too long a probationary period before admitting him. Yet, how can the Communists hope to retain the faithful Tim as leader and retain Mr. Hepburn as well?

Mr. Hepburn attributed his change of view, almost wholly, to a book he had read the night before. I should have thought that the experiences of poverty and distress that hundreds of thousands of his fellow-Canadians passed through from 1930-1938 would have had an infinitely more powerful effect in changing his political outlook than the reading of a book by "a very prominent labor author of Britain."

Tax Collection Costs Barometer of Prosperity

By PETER EDSON

THE HISTORY of the costs of collecting the U.S. federal tax dollar gives a pretty good picture of the country's financial prosperity. Back in 1866 after the Civil War, when the country was pretty well shot, it cost $2.47 to collect $100 in taxes. The cost gradually went down until the income tax law first went into effect in 1912, when the cost of collecting $100 was $1.71. This figure declined to 33c in 1918.

This was an all-time low for the U.S., and it can be explained by the fact that the tax collections were extremely heavy in the war years. The exact reverse of that situation developed in 1932 at the depth of the depression when tax collections were low and the costs of collecting each $100 rose to $2.17.

Since 1932 the costs of tax collecting have been declining gradually. In 1941, with total tax collections of over $7 billion, the costs of collecting were $65 million, or about 89c on the $100. In 1942, with collections of $13 billion, costs were $74 million, or 57c per $100. In spite of the innovation of the new 5 per cent Victory tax on wages, Treasury experts believe that 1943 costs of tax collection will be held down, though the real test of that will come in 1944 when all these Victory tax returns have to be filed and examined.

The estimates of $2 billion from Victory tax and $8 billion from income taxes for 1943 are net—that is, the amount the government will get after the costs of collecting the taxes have been deducted. No official estimates have as yet been made as to what all these costs of collection will be, but a fair guess is that they will come close to $80 million. This figures at 80c to collect every $100 in tax revenue.

REVENUE EMPLOYEES

Back in 1866 there were about

4,400 employees in the federal government's tax department. In 1912, in spite of the introduction of the federal income tax, the number of employees in the Bureau of Internal Revenue was only 4,000, but by 1918 it had risen to 9,500 because of the problems presented by the war taxes. In 1932 the number of employees was 11,700, in 1941 it was 27,000 and today it is about 30,000.

The next tax law's provisions require that all tax forms will have to be revised, and because of the late date of passage, the printing presses will have to grind day and night from now until the job is done, some time during the first quarter of 1943. An estimated 32 million income tax returns will be filed before March 15, 1943, but that means that nearly 200 million tax forms will have to be printed, to provide the necessary duplicates, incorrectly filed returns and false starts.

Japan's Policies—Pre-war

By MAJOR J. P. SIMON
Victoria Branch, Canadian Institute of International Affairs.

OBJECT of this article is to show what the stated policy of Japan is for the great East Asiatic area, and the steps she is now taking to put that policy into effect.

The original Japanese concept of a new order in East Asia was confined to Japan, Manchukuo and China. On April 18, 1934, the Amari statement was issued, in which the Tokyo foreign office spokesman declared that Japan claimed the right to act single-handedly in "maintaining peace and order in Eastern Asia." He also said that "any joint operations undertaken by foreign powers, even in the name of technical and financial assistance" to China were "bound to acquire political significance." He added that Japan would oppose the supplying of war planes, the building of airbases, the supplying of military instructors, or the making of loans for political purposes to China. Following the Amari statement were other statements and notes in none of which were territories other than those in the Chinese zone included. This phase of Japan's expansionist policy closed with the Kono statement of Dec. 22, 1938, in which he announced the terms on which Japan would be prepared to conclude a peace with China. They were:

- (a) Chinese recognition of Manchukuo;
- (b) Conclusion of an anti-Communist agreement between China and Japan;
- (c) Stationing of Japanese troops at specified points in China as an anti-Communist measure and designation of Inner Mongolia as a special anti-Communist area; and
- (d) Freedom of residence and trade in the interior for Japanese, with facilities for the development of China's natural resources, especially in North China and Inner Mongolia.

By April, 1940, Japan was concerned lest the war in Europe should affect the status quo of the Netherlands East Indies, and on April 15, 1940, following an emergency meeting of the cabinet the Japanese foreign minister, Hachiro Arita, made a statement to the press in which he expressed Japan's deep concern regarding this. On June 24, 1940, Arita made the first definite enunciation on the greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere. In a radio speech he said "It seems to be a natural step that peoples who are closely related with each other geographically, racially, culturally and economically should first form a sphere for their own co-existence and prosperity with other spheres." It was in this spirit that Japan was engaged in establishing a new order in East Asia. "The countries of East Asia and the regions of the South Seas are geographically, historically, racially and economically very closely related to each other. They are destined to co-operate and minister to one another's needs for their common well-being and prosperity and to promote peace and progress in their regions. The uniting of all these regions under a single sphere on the basis of common existence and the insuring thereby the stability of that sphere is a natural conclusion." Japan was paying serious attention to the repercussions of the European war in the various quarters of East Asia, including the South Sea regions, and "I desire to declare that the destiny of these regions—any development thereof—is a matter of grave concern to Japan in view of her mission and responsibility as the stabilizing force in East Asia."

ON AUG. 1, 1940, Yosuke Matsuoka declared that the Netherlands East Indies and French Indo-China were regarded as in the Greater East Asia. On the next day, Aug. 2, Yachihiro Suma, the foreign office spokesman, said that the co-prosperity sphere definitely included other places in the South Seas in addition to the East Indies. He failed to define the exact area and would not say whether or not it included the Philippines.

Nature's Remedy
N.R. TABLETS

On Feb. 24, 1941, when speaking in the Diet, Matsuoka suggested that the white races should cede their possessions in Oceania to the yellow races, specifying an area extending 1,200 miles from north to south and 1,000 miles east to west, with sufficient natural resources to support a population of 600 to 800 millions. This sphere included the Netherlands East Indies, Indo-China and Siam, but he denied that it included the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand or Hawaii. On Feb. 6, Naoki Hoshino, chairman of the cabinet planning board, told a Diet committee that the co-prosperity sphere embracing Japan, China and Manchukuo could not succeed unless "the eastern portion of the South Seas were included," his argument being the need for industrial self-sufficiency.

Unofficial but influential expressions of opinion on the subject were more definite. Admiral Takahashi, a former commander-in-chief of the Japanese fleet, writing in the magazine "Hinode," stated that the Japanese co-prosperity sphere started in Manchukuo in the north and extended to Australia in the south; in the east ended at 180 degrees longitude; in the west it extended to the Bay of Bengal and Burma. It would be built in stages as the Japanese national strength increased, Australia and the more southerly islands of the East Indies being added to it last.

TURNING now to pre-war pronouncements as to the political and economic organization of the sphere, writing in "Contemporary Japan" in Dec. 1940, Matsuoka declared that Japan did not plan territorial annexation or economic monopoly within the sphere. She intended to "liberate the inhabitants of the whole region from the shackles of imperialism." The peoples of the regions must determine their own future. A more concrete statement appeared in 1941 in an article written by Shingoro Takaiishi, chairman of the board of directors of the Osaka Mainichi Publishing Company, in which he said that the principles governing the organization of greater East Asia could be given under three heads—political, cultural and economic. Politically the member states would not be required to modify their respective forms of government which were the outgrowth of their peculiar histories and natural environments. They would, however, have to adjust their policies to the needs of the sphere as a whole and on no account would they be allowed to adopt nationalistic policies for their exclusive benefits at the expense of other member states. Owing to the highly diverse cultural standards, there must be a definite attempt at unification of not kinds but of levels of achievement, with the idea of harmonizing the various cultures into a glorious whole.

TURNING to economic co-operation Takaiishi said that it "is the cardinal point in the structure, is in fact the very motive for the solidarity movement." He pointed out that apart from the wide differences in industrial evolution within the component states and in the marked differences in the kind of productive activities, some states were endowed with rich natural resources and raw materials while others maintained a high level of industrial activity. Owing to the absence of any attempt to co-ordinate these divergent activities there was wasteful duplication and regrettable maladjustment of production and distribution, whereas there would be very great benefit to all of the member states through rationalization or controlled economy. He cited sugar production as an example of the existing wasteful methods, pointing out that Java produced enough sugar to meet all the requirements of the Japanese Empire, while at the same time the Philippines produced vast quantities which they were obliged to dump on the United States market to the latter's incessant perplexity. He said that if the Philippines converted her surplus sugar production to cotton crop with decided advantage to both countries.

TAKAISHI POINTED OUT that the economic control of the sphere must be comprehensive; it must deal with as a basic matter the readjustment of the various productive activities of the different peoples as well as with "such a trivial point" as the stabilization of interstate monetary relations. It must include adjustment in the supply and demand for labor, both skilled and unskilled, revision of customs tariffs, the smooth flow of working capital, preferably through a central financing institution or consortium; and efforts at increasing productivity among the raw material producing countries through the introduction of scientific methods and the increased consumption of their products by the industrial nations.

For the defence of the area he felt that there should be defined a safety zone within which belligerent activities would be prohibited, to prevent any attempt from outside to disturb the status quo within the sphere; to curb subversive activities within the member states and to create a "vigilance commission" which would take prompt action to assure the safety of the whole.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

SECURITY...FOR THE PEOPLE...BY THE PEOPLE...

How can a dollar be in two places at once?

That's easy, if it's an insurance dollar.

You put this dollar into an insurance premium, and you say to yourself, there's my dollar, as safe as a church. And so it is.

But if you think that your dollar just sits still in a big vault and twiddles its thumbs until you're ready to take it back in some form of benefits—either for yourself or your family—you're mistaken.

If you looked for that dollar you'd find it was busy. You'd find that that dollar has gone to war! Just where you'd want it to go.

Your premium dollars, and millions of others, have been loaned to your government to help carry our arms to victory.

Instead of these dollars in the vault, there is a pile of War Bonds. And they are as safe as a church, too. All the enormous resources of Canada are behind them. There is no safer investment in the world.

That is why over another hundred and fifty million dollars of insurance savings have been invested by life insurance companies in the latest Victory Loan—making a grand total of over four hundred and fifty million dollars in war bonds. And that's an average of over $112 so invested for every insured person in Canada.

So you can feel doubly happy about every dollar you have put into insurance. It protects you and your dependents—and at the same time it helps to protect the whole nation—by supplying the tools of victory.

Victory is everybody's business. Everyone should work, save and lend to the limit.

Cpl. Betty Cottet.

Two Victoria girls, now corporals in the R.C.A.F. (Women's Division), returned home over the weekend to spend a week in the city speaking before women's clubs and groups on their impressions and experiences in the service. They are Cpl. B. E. Cottet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Cottet, 1958 Boucher Avenue, and Cpl. R. C. Belcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Belcher, 1254 Basil Avenue.

Both educated in Victoria, Cpl. Cottet and Belcher joined the R.C.A.F. (W.D.) in the spring of this year and trained in Ottawa and Toronto for administration duties. Cpl. Cottet was posted to Lethbridge, Alberta, on completion of her training and Cpl. Belcher was stationed at Mount Julie, Quebec. Recently they both were posted to the west coast.

They will be available every day this week as speakers for girls' or women's organizations, large and small. Further particulars will be given at Western Air Command Headquarters, Belmont House.

Cpl. Cottet is a graduate of Victoria High School. After taking a business course she worked for two and a half years as stenographer for Hon. W. J. Asselstine, Minister of Mines, and for eight months worked as secretary to P. E. Freeman, chief mining engineer for the provincial government. For three years she was regent of the Royal British Chapter, I.O.D.E., and was an active member of the B.C. Electric Tennis Club.

Cpl. Cottet gained top marks in a class of 38 girls in the course she took in R.C.A.F. administration, and was an honor graduate in a stenographic course she was given prior to the administration training.

Cpl. Belcher was educated at Oaklands and Victoria High Schools. She took business training after high school and worked for a time in a civilian capacity at Western Air Command headquarters.

From 1934 to 1939 she played for Bob Whyte's Adverts, basketball and softball teams, being a member of the basketball team when it won the British Columbia intermediate championship. She trained for her R.C.A.F. duties in Ottawa.

Presbyterian Girls In Rally Saturday

Presbyterian C.G.I.T. groups from Gorge, Erskine, St. Paul's, St. Andrew's and the Chinese churches in Victoria, together with their leaders and W.M.S. representatives met in a rally on Saturday afternoon in St. Andrew's lecture room. The occasion was the visit of Miss Margaret Webster, national girls' work secretary of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Miss Rita Rodger, Presbyterian girls' secretary, acted as chairman, and Miss Peggy Dykes as pianist. Miss Rodger led a sing-song, during which Miss Webster taught new songs. Mrs. H. Fulton of St. Andrew's led in devotions.

Miss Webster brought greetings from some of the 5,000 Presbyterian C.G.I.T. girls she had visited. Her message to the girls was most inspiring, based on the theme "Filling In Spaces," taken from a beautiful French story. New games were introduced by Miss Webster, Isabel Scott, the deaconess, thanked Miss Webster. A short discussion on leaders' problems, was held later in the afternoon, after which the meeting adjourned for supper at the Nutshell.

Friday evening Miss Webster spoke informally to a gathering of W.M.S. representatives and friends, at which Rev. T. H. McAllister, moderator of synod of B.C. and convener of Presbyterian's committee on Y.P.S. and S.S., presided. Mr. McAllister led in the devotions and welcomed Miss Webster to Victoria. Mrs. J. A. Kennedy, president of Victoria Presbyterian W.M.S., expressed gratitude for the message delivered by one so youthful, in which Christ, "the Light of the World," was held as the greatest need.

Miss Webster addressed St. Paul's Sunday school and spoke to the congregation of Gorge Church Sunday evening. Miss Webster will fulfil engagements in Vancouver on Monday evening.

Junior Red Cross Doing Fine Work

Miss Jean E. Browne, national director of Junior Red Cross, Toronto, and Miss Margaret Palmer, director of Junior Red Cross for British Columbia, Vancouver, paid a visit to Red Cross headquarters in Victoria yesterday. While here they discussed Junior Red Cross work with officials of the Victoria and District Branch and teachers of Victoria, Sidney and Esquimalt schools.

Speaking of Junior Red Cross work Miss Browne stated that there were 29,000 branches of the Junior Red Cross in Canada with an approximate membership of 839,000 school boys and girls. Since the war began they have raised $700,000. They maintain 14 nurseries in England for children under five years of age, who have been orphaned or injured by bombing raids. This costs almost $50,000 a year.

The Canadian Red Cross Juniors have also given 14 mobile kitchens, 6 ambulances, 2 station wagons, 7 utilitons; 1 mobile canteen and 3,000 woolen blankets for use in Britain. Special work for the Department of National Defense—the making of arm splints, test tube racks and trays for holding instruments—has been done by Junior Red Cross boys.

Doll's Bazaar Set for Dec. 2

The sixth annual dolls' bazaar will take place in the Nurses' Home of the Royal Jubilee Hospital Wednesday, Dec. 2, from 2:30 to 6, under the auspices of the Junior W.A. Mrs. Conway Parrott, general convener, and her assistant, Mrs. Arthur Nash, report that plans for a promising wartime bazaar are well under way.

Mrs. M. Morten has for the past year been planning on an assortment of dolls which will include, besides the larger baby dolls, a great number of small, less expensive ones, while Mrs. G. H. Simons and her committee have been busily making small garments to fit all types of dolls and to be sold separately. The knitting committee under Mrs. R. H. Green and Mrs. C. L. Ayland has been building up a delightful collection of daintily knitted baby wear, and Mrs. Ronald Newell and her vocational committee have devised and made dozens of novel and useful gifts.

Owing to the shortage of various commodities it was decided by Mrs. Denniston and her committee to dispense with candy and home cooking stalls and instead to provide a public market stall which should have an even more fascinating variety of home cooked and home-grown edibles. A plant stall featuring plants, cut flower seeds, and gourds is being arranged by Mrs. C. A. Burchett. Mrs. W. B. Wilson is planning the white elephant stall, a new feature this year.

Children will be entertained by movies shown by Mr. Douglas Filintoff, and Mrs. J. V. Copeman is arranging an attractive Christmas tree.

Mrs. Trevor Roberts and her refreshment committee decided to provide a bouillon bar with sandwiches and savories to take the place of tea and coffee. Fortune-telling will be provided.

Liberal Women Hear R. W. Mayhew

Liberal Women's Forum met Friday, with the president, Mrs. F. J. Mitchell, in the chair. Mrs. Blair Reid, treasurer, reported the task of raising $1,000 for Canada's War Effort Fund was nearly completed. It was recommended that letters be sent to Mrs. H. I. McKenzie, recording secretary, and to Mrs. Williams, both of whom have illness in their families.

Mr. R. W. Mayhew, M.P., addressed the meeting, giving an interesting outline of Canada's war effort. He particularly stressed the importance of salvage, urging everyone present to co-operate to the fullest extent with the Salvage Corps here.

A solo, "Bells of St. Mary's," sung by Mrs. Hugh Black, accompanied by Mrs. N. Bertucci, was enjoyed.

'Y' Girls Busy On Yule Plans

Plans for Christmas are already stirring among the senior clubs of the Y.W.C.A. The choir, under the direction of Miss Louise Noble, is preparing carols for the pantomime to be held at the "Y" Dec. 20. The choir, which meets on Monday evenings at 7.30, and is open to any girl interested in singing. Robes for the girls are being made by members of the Versatile and Enterprize clubs and scenery for the play is being painted by the H-Y Grads. Several clubs have sent Christmas bundles to Britain, stuffed animals for children, stockings packed with candy, writing paper, razor blades and other desirable gifts for men in hospital, ditty bags and babies' clothing. Some groups are sewing quilts, knitting and in other ways making their contributions.

From 60 to 80 young men and women have been joining in the fun at the Y.M.-Y.W. Sunday evening firesides, held alternate weeks in the "Y" buildings. Music, games, and special program features make up the evening, which begins at 9. Men of all three services as well as civilians attend. In charge of the programs are: Misses Evelyn Alexander, Marjorie Crow, Dolores Larsen, Margaret Smith and Jean Harwood; and Messrs. Cliff Batstone, Roy Brain, Harry Carter and Ken Priestley.

New hostess cards have been issued to club girls for the Y.W.C.A. dances at the Shrine Hall. A girl must be a club member or sponsored by a club member in order to hold a hostess pass. A large attendance is expected at the second November dance.

Show Business For Soldiers Means Enlisting

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA (CP)—Fighting men with a talent for entertainment are wanted for the Army Show. The entertainment group, now being formed, is to consist almost entirely of men who were soldiers to start with and who will keep on being soldiers while they are in the show business.

Since the army is being canvassed for men with talent, it is not expected many outsiders will be needed. But where they are needed they will be enlisted and will go on army pay, army rations, wear uniform and undergo military training.

Geoffrey Waddington, Toronto orchestra leader, will be musical director of the show and will join the army for the purpose. He will have to take training like any other soldier and qualify for any ranks given.

The primary purpose of the show is the bolstering of morale within the army. With this in view it is considered desirable that soldiers should be able to take pride in the performance of the troops and regard them as fellow soldiers. A secondary purpose is recruiting, which is furthered by having a sound morale within the army and also by the interest in the army which the show will foster in the minds of younger Canadians who are either at or approaching enlistment age.

TO GO ON AIR

It is hoped the show will go on the air for at least half an hour a week and so build up a list of audience to which the army can convey its message and through which interest in the army as a field of service can be stimulated in the minds of prospective recruits.

A training officer will accompany the show when it goes on the road and all members of the troupe will go through the regular course of army training. It may take them a little longer to complete certain phases of training by reason of their work with the show, but they will keep at the job of training so they will be ready for combatant posts should it become necessary to assign them to units.

Capt. Jack Reid of London and Toronto has been appointed liaison officer and is the main talent scout. One of his aims is to make the show representative of all Canada and to select men from all military districts.

If three trombone players are required and three good players are found in Montreal they will not be automatically signed up. Reid will take a look around for two equally good trombone players in two other centres and thus get three men from three different localities.

Former Wampas Star, Sidney Fox, Dead

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Sidney Fox, former screen actress, was found dead in bed Sunday by her husband, Chas. Beahan, theatrical agent, in their Beverly Hills home.

Detective Capt. W. W. White said Beahan told him Miss Fox had been in ill-health for some time. They retired about midnight, after spending the evening with friends, and Beahan went to her room on noticing a light there when he awoke, White's report said.

Miss Fox, 31, was a Wampas baby star in 1931.

White said an autopsy was being performed.

Mess Room Chatter Of Canada's Airmen

By LOUIS V. HUNTER

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP)—

Pilot Officer J. W. Reynolds, D.F.C., of Pembroke, Ont., tells this story of a split-second near miss.

Attacking an enemy supply ship, Reynolds, in a Hurricane, pressed his bomb-release and sent a bomb hurtling towards the vessel. Coming up was a Bofors shell and the two missiles missed each other in the air by a fraction of a second. The bomb hit the ship and the shell hit Reynolds' bomb-rack. Had Reynolds hesitated his Hurricane-bomber would have been blown to pieces. Instead, he went on, machine-gunned the ship and returned safely to base with nothing more than a hole in the wing.

Reconnaissance later showed a ship aground near Calais and the pilot's report said briefly, "well hit."

Flt. Lt. J. M. Godfrey, a Toronto lawyer-turned-airman, left the cockpit of his Spitfire for a fortnight to tour war factories and tell thousands of workers in munitions, aircraft and ordnance plants how they could help to win the war in the air.

A former president of the Peel County Liberal Association, the tall red-headed fighter pilot said he found a keen spirit among the workers. "In some cases, though," Godfrey said, "I got the people who were late for work, or absent more than necessary, over in a corner and told them just what it meant."

The officer, whose wife lives in Toronto, is a Dieppe veteran. He made three flights during the raid. A member of the R.C.A.F. squadron led by Sqdn. Ldr. C. J. Fee, D.F.C., of Calgary, he caught a piece of flak "quite close to where I was sitting," during the air fighting over the beach.

Flt. Lt. Vernon Foster Pater-son, a native of Assiniboia, Sask., whose home is at Moose Jaw, has been made a flight commander in an R.C.A.F. fighter squadron commanded by Sqdn. Ldr. R. B. Newton, D.F.C., an Englishman. He succeeds Flt. Lt. Robert W. (Buck) McNair, D.F.C., of North Battleford, Sask., a Malta veteran who has returned to Canada for a rest.

A farmer in civilian life, Pater-son has been overseas since last March and has served with squadron commanded by Sqdn. Ldr. Ralph C. Weston of Saint John, Ont. He has been on more than 25 sweeps over occupied France.

John Cobb, famous British racing motorist who shortly before the war smashed the world's land speed record at Salt Lake City with a mark of 369.7 miles an hour, is ferrying aircraft. His 210 pounds make him one of the heaviest fliers in the world.

Compared to the great Arizona meteorite, the biggest bombs dropped in the present war are midgets. The meteorite would have wiped Berlin or London off the map.

Government Offices Face New Economies

OTTAWA (CP)—Col. John Thompson, recently created director of government office economies-control, is gathering about him an army of voluntary assistants in virtually every department of government in a drive to lop off large chunks from the annual cost of government office equipment and supplies.

Some 40 government officials, working in all government departments, boards and commissions, have been named to act as the director's collaborators, facilitating the observance in their divisions of his economy and salvage orders.

A meeting will be held shortly to survey the results of their first full month of operations.

CBC, BANK OF CANADA EXEMPT

All departments of government are covered by the control measures, but the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the Bank of Canada and the Wartime Information Board are exempt.

Col. Thompson, who has been in office only a few weeks, is a small, alert man in middle age, well-preserved and full of energy. He is a son of Sir John Thompson, one-time Prime Minister of Canada.

Now he has come out of retirement to take on this task for the wartime government without salary, and he told the Canadian Press he was afraid he was making a lot of bad friends.

To bring about the utmost economy it has been necessary for him to make demands which departmental heads, long accustomed to the abundance and quality of office materials available to them in peacetime, find it hard to accept.

New Yorkers Want Eisenhower's Picture

NEW YORK (AP)—A picture supply company here said that in three days it had received orders for more than 250,000 pictures of Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of American forces in north Africa. The New York Frame and Picture Company said the demand for Gen. Eisenhower's picture was three times their rate of demand for Gen. Douglas MacArthur's picture when he was making his heroic stand at Bataan.

Endorse Request For Free Gas Masks

C.C.F. New Forum Club met in the C.C.F. Hall, Pandora Avenue, Friday, Mrs. P. Rayment in the chair. After hearing of the stand taken by the School Board, the club unanimously endorsed their action by asking the federal government to supply gas masks free to all, but to the children most decidedly.

Mrs. J. T. Witte and Mr. Ken McAllister gave talks on "Total Conscription For the War." A question period ensued, after which the announcement was made that the C.C.F. District Council would have a house-warming on Friday, Nov. 20, at 8, under the convership of Mrs. P. J. Bennett. There will be various amusements, including dancing and refreshments. Mr. J. Logie will give a short resume of events that led to the purchase of the new headquarters. The Victoria District Council C.C.F. announced that Mr. Charles E. Crow will be a candidate for the School Board at the coming municipal elections.

LANGFORD

Mrs. A. F. Bayles presided at the monthly meeting of the Langford Parent-Teacher Association. Mrs. A. Oakley gave a reading. Mrs. K. C. Hansen was appointed "fine arts" convener. G. H. McKenzie, John Hayton and K. C. Hansen.

Mrs. J. Braithwaite was appointed club mistress, assisted by Miss Stella Fincks. A building for scout and cub meeting has been lent by Mr. Bullen. A branch of the guides and brownies is being formed. Rev. Greenhalph gave a talk on "Life on Prince Edward Island."

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose, get a package of Hem-Roid from Modern Pharmacy and Cunningham Drug Store—or any drugstore—and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely satisfied—the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.

British Brig: Vogel Killed in Crash

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, French North Africa (AP)—Brig. Frank Vogel of the British army, a member of Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's staff, was killed in a plane crash while carrying out a mission, Gen. Eisenhower announced Sunday.

Killed in the same crash was Capt. F. T. Peters of the Royal Navy, hero of Oran, who had been recommended for the American Distinguished Service Cross for commanding one of two former U.S. coastguard cutters which were placed at pieces after cutting through the Oran harbor boom.

Sun Sight

All British Leave Iceland to U.S. Troops

REYKJAVIK (AP)—British troops, in Iceland since May, 1940, have been shifted to other war sectors, leaving the island in occupation only of U.S. forces, it was disclosed Sunday. Sveinn Bjornsson, regent, in opening the first session of the newly-elected Althing, referred to the British forces which "have now left the country," giving place to the American army, which is here at our request, and according to our free agreement.

By PETE SALLAWAY

WHAT a good thing for us the watermelon season is not on. Those were the words of referee Ed Battell following Friday night's hockey clash between the V.M.D. and R.C.A.F. which saw the ice officials showered with a deluge of apples cores. It was one of those nights in which the referees were placed right on the spot. They were forced to make a couple of decisions that were certain to go down the wrong way with the pro-R.C.A.F. crowd.

Majority of the trouble arose over the awarding of a "gift" goal to the V.M.D. In that hectic third period, and a forced penalty through the Flyers having too many men on the ice while a player was resting in the penalty box. The awarded goal came as the result of defenceman Leo Lavobitch throwing his stick at a V.M.D. player as he sped towards goal. On both occasions the refs had no alternative. Their decisions are laid down for them in black and white in the rule book.

As far as the two misconduct penalties to Lavobitch and Jimmy Lowe of the Flyers, were concerned, the referees were quite within their rights. Both players talked back (from what we hear the language was anything but friendly) so the officials had to take some action to show the offenders they intended to keep control. We admit the penalties to the airmen certainly didn't help the game but that cannot be held against the referees. Lot of the fans squawked about the work of the officials, but then how many of the people who sit in the seats know the rules. We know the officials called the plays as they saw them and were not trying to play any favorite. And don't forget they had been instructed by the league to keep the rough play and high sticking to a minimum.

Hockey Bars Down?

Pro Becomes Amateur

By CHARLES EDWARDS

TORONTO (CP) — Wuxtra! Wuxtra! The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association bars apparently are down. Professionals may obtain reinstatements by the day, week or year at C.A.H.A. wickets. Puzzle: What is a professional?

Bill Gooden, winger with Portage la Prairie's junior hockey champions last season, signed a professional contract with New York Rangers and opened this National League campaign in Toronto. But, although Gooden is reported militarily exempt because of defective hearing, selective service delayed granting him a permit to play in the United States. Pending negotiations, Rangers left Bill in Toronto. Then what? Gooden scored the only Niagara Falls goal as Port Colborne beat the Cataracts 3 to 1 Friday night in the Senior Ontario Hockey Association — an amateur (?) league.

Billy Hewitt, C.A.H.A. registrar, explains Gooden was reinstated by the C.A.H.A. as an amateur for Friday night's game only. And, says Billy, Gooden is still a professional and still with Rangers. Friday amateur, Saturday professional, Sunday amateur, Monday wash day Tuesday — what? Syl Apps has tonight off with Toronto Leafs and maybe the Beaverton Rockets could use him for that game with Plum Coulee.

A NATURAL

Montreal Railbirds like the looks of Maurice Richard, Canadiens' hockey rookie. Dink (Montreal) Gazette's Carroll quotes one fan's opinion of the newcomer: "He's a natural... even when he falls down he looks good."

The Welland Port Colborne Tribune is concerned over entry of Toronto Navy in the Senior Ontario Hockey Association: "Writers are already referring to the nautical crew as the tars and the sailors. Now where does Port Colborne get off at, for as many years as you care to mention the Ports have been familiarly known as tars and sailors. Eddie O'Keefe, whose hockey travels took him last year to Ni-neither read nor write this fighter Beau Jack, who scored a sensational victory over Allie Stolz Friday night, is doing right well for himself. Some authorities as shrewd as Henry Armstrong say he's the next lightweight champion, while others say he'll fall just short because of his wildly unorthodox style. Reading an interesting article on the negro lad written recently by Bob Considine in a prominent weekly magazine we note where Beau Jack is a product of the famous battle-royals. He is unique in that he has the financial backing and moral support of the most distinguished list of patrons a fighter ever had. The list includes Bartlett Arkell, founder of the Beech-Nut Co.; Dwight Ellis, New England textile man; Bobby Jones, famous golfer; J. G. Giffillan, retired president of the Jell-O Co.; Grantland Rice, dean of United States sports writers and others.

Beau Jack was first noticed while working as a shoe-shine boy at the Augusta National Club. After taking part and winning several battle-royals he was taken in hand by Bowman Milligan, a young, intelligent negro, who is chief steward of the Augusta Club. Traveling to New York on the strength of his noted backing Jack was taken over by Hercules Wergeles who has been successful in putting over the negro fighter with Mike Jacobs, czar of the fight racket in Gotham.

Most interesting part of Beau Jack is that he has no concept of money. During his first year in the ring he received $1 a week pocket money. Later his allowance was boosted to $2 followed by another jump to $5 per week. The remainder of the money is placed in a bank. Beau Jack doesn't want much out of the life except to get enough money to buy a hawg farm near Augusta and retire to a life of sticking pigs.

Vancouver Soccer

VANCOUVER (CP) — St. Andrews defeated St. Saviours, 4 to 1, in a Pacific Coast League soccer game here Saturday, which the Saviours finished only under protest after Referee Alex Murray had once called the game off when Jack Brandolini knocked the goalposts over. Saviours, in protesting the game, contended the referee should not have restarted the match. The rules declare the game is automatically canceled under such circumstances.

Alumni Win Over Blue Devils, No Charity Proceeds

V.H.S. Alumni narrowly nipped V.M.D. Blue Devils, 14 to 13, in an exhibition Canadian Football game at Macdonald Park, Sunday afternoon, in a supposedly charity game for the Milk for Britain Fund.

None of the members of the Kingsmen Club, under whose auspices the game was played, turned out at the game so no silver collection was taken for the fund. By arrangement with the Canadian Football League the Kingsmen were to look after the collection, all of which would have gone to the purchase of milk for British Kiddies.

Played under a wind-swept sky and close the whole distance, the game was featured by a 100-yard touchdown run by Blue Devil's little Red Bourque early in the second quarter.

Before he made the run Alumni were leading 7 to 5. The speedy Blue Devil backfield star got the snapped ball on his own score line, wriggled around left end and broke into the clear to score going away. Sid Anderson's kick was no good but minutes after he booted a field goal to make the score 13 to 7.

REGAIN LEAD

The third quarter saw Alumni take a one point lead and then hold it throughout a hectic fourth quarter. Buddy Lott bucked the ball over after Chunggranes had taken it to the Devils' one yard line on a wide end run. Chunggranes' kick was good. On the next kick-off Sid Anderson was roused to give Alumni the lead, 14 to 13.

Keversky made the first Alumni score early in the initial quarter, converting a 25-yard forward pass thrown by Toad Garnett. Alumni ran the ball over for the extra point. Anderson opened the Devil scoring from the Alumni two yard line, plunging over on his third down. After the kick-off he was roused to give Alumni a 7 to 5 lead. Then came Bourque's run.

As the game was an exhibition, ex-Revelers Sid Anderson and Jimmy Smith played for Blue Devils and Alumni respectively while former Winnipeg player, Clark Kelly, had a whirl with the Devils.

Vaunted Hurricanes Suffer Grid Defeat

TORONTO (CP) — The aura of invincibility which has clung all season to R.C.A.F. Hurricanes in the Ontario Rugby Football Union vanished completely Saturday when the flyers were humbled 15 to 6 by the lowly Oakwood Indians in the biggest upset of the season.

Meanwhile in Hamilton Wildcats retained a mathematical chance of gaining a playoff berth when they defeated the luckless Kitchener-Waterloo Panthers 20 to 1.

Results of Saturday's games found Toronto Balm Beach holding the coveted second spot in the standings by a one-point margin over Navy. Hamilton was fourth with 10 points, one back of Navy. At Toronto the Indians, most of them just up from high school football ranks, tackled like demons, halted the vaunted R.C.A.F. running attack, ripped the Hurricanes' line to shreds and outfoxed their hitherto unbeaten opponents at almost every turn.

ARMY TEAM WITHDRAWS

SASKATOON (CP) — Another upheaval in the ranks of the Saskatchewan Senior Hockey League came at its scheduled meeting here Saturday, when the Regina Army team objected to participating in a league with a civilian team, Flin Flap Bombers, and was dropped from the circuit. Regina's action left Saskatoon

Army Whips Nanaimo

NANAIMO (CP) — Victoria's Army team today looked more than ever like the club to beat after running their winning streak in the Vancouver Island Hockey League to four victories with a 7 to 3 win over Nanaimo Clippers.

Heavy favorites after defeating the Victoria naval squad 6 to 0, Patricia's Bay's airmen 11 to 1 and Victoria V.M.D. 12 to 7, the Army puckmen lost no opportunity to capitalize on the breaks in Saturday's game.

Packing plenty of punch and showing smooth play-making they back-checked Clippers to a standstill when the Nanaimo men put on the heat near the end of the game.

Still lacking the services of playing coach Dave MacKay, suspended by the C.A.H.A., Clippers failed to show enough finish around the net.

FIVE-GOAL SPREE

Neither team was able to dent the twine in the first but Army went to work in a big way in the second when they banged in five goals, three of them from the stick of Bus Algar and the others scored by Desilets and Bill Carse. Wilson got assists on two of Algar's scores.

Jimmy Wilson and "Suds" Sutherland scored for Clippers to leave the army with a 5 to 2 lead.

Wilson and Desilets added two more for Army in the third while Jackie Mann got Clippers' third.

SUMMARY

First Period — No scoring. Penalties: Grant, Kreller.

Second Period — 1, Army, Algar (Wilson), 3:40; 2, Army, Algar (Wilson), 7:46; 3, Army, Algar, 9:52; 4, Army, Desilets, 11:10; 5, Nanaimo, Wilson, 15:34; 6, Army, Carse, 16:23; 7, Nanaimo, Sutherland (Wilson), 19:31. Penalties: Grant, Bobrosky, Carse, Mann (4 mins.).

Third Period — 8, Nanaimo, Mann (Smith), 6:39; 9, Army, Wilson, 11:55; 10, Army, Desilets (Carse), 15:27. Penalties: Grant (4 mins.).

Varsity Holds Lead

VANCOUVER (CP) — Varsity trounced Stacys, 50 to 34, here Saturday night to remain in first place in the Inter-city Basketball League while Lauries took the measure of R.C.A.F., 38 to 26, in the second game of the double-headed bill.

The night's results left Shores in second place, Lauries third and Stacys and Air Force at the bottom of the league.

High scorers for Varsity were Sandy Robertson and Harry Kermod with 13 each. Bill Anderson paced Stacys with 13 also. Arnie Bumstead led Lauries with 14 and Jim Shuttleworth the Air Force with 10.

Mainland Rugby

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four teams are deadlocked for top place in the Miller Cup English Rugby standings as a result of Saturday's games at Brockton Point.

R.C.A.F. scored another great victory by downing Varsity, 9 to 0 (three tries to nil), and ex-Britannia swamped U.B.C., 20 to 0 (one goal and five tries to nil). Navy defaulted to ex-Bying, while Rowing Club, former leaders, had a bye.

The oarsmen, however, played ex-Bying in an exhibition and won 11 to 5 (a goal and two tries to a goal).

R.C.A.F., Yorkton R.C.A.F., Mossbank R.C.A.F. and Flin Flap Bombers in the league. Representatives of these four clubs will meet at Regina Saturday morning to draw up a schedule.

Nanaimo Moves to Get Action on MacKay Suspension

NANAIMO (CP) — Nanaimo Clippers are going to bring to a head their controversy with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association over the suspension of playing coach Dave MacKay because of his alleged refusal to report to Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League at the start of the season.

Pete Maffeo, Nanaimo member of the British Columbia Hockey Association's executive, said following Saturday's game that he would immediately contact President Doug Grimston, New Westminster, in an attempt to have the matter settled.

Clippers, who have won only one game this season in the Vancouver Island Hockey League, are badly in need of MacKay's services. They took another beating Saturday night when Victoria's Army team defeated them 7 to 3.

WANT ALL DETAILS

Maffeo declared that "if there is something behind MacKay's suspension, of which coast officials are unaware, then it's high time we were told the facts of the case, now apparently being withheld in the interests of the N.H.L. professional body."

The Clippers were informed in a wire from A. S. Altken, secretary of the B.C. Hockey Association, received just before game time Saturday, that the entire Clipper line-up would automatically be suspended if MacKay took the ice. The wire said further appeals on behalf of MacKay should be directed to Bill Tobin, Chicago Hawks business manager.

Make New Plans for Canadian Grid Final

TORONTO (CP) — R. W. Hewitt, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union, said Sunday the C.R.U. had proposed to Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers that they meet Ottawa Senior City League champions at Ottawa, Nov. 28, the winner to meet the Ontario Rugby Football Union champions Dec. 5 for the Canadian championship.

The C.R.U.'s action followed a meeting of the O.R.F.U. at which the proposition was made that the western champions play the Ottawa team in a semifinal game on that date.

The O.R.F.U. said it was found impossible to speed up its schedule to meet the Dec. 1 deadline set by the Royal Canadian Air Force for participation in further play by R.C.A.F. service teams. "There is too much at stake in next week's games," the secretary said. "Two of the teams have a chance to get into second place and a third has a chance to tie for second place."

No suggestion was made as to where the Nov. 28 and Dec. 5 games would be played. This would be decided by the Canadian Rugby Union.

The Sunday meeting was held with the hope of finding a solution to the tangled Canadian championship question.

The O.R.F.U. was very interested in having a team in the C.R.U. playoffs, the secretary said, but could see no other solution than the one proposed.

GORGE VALE GOLF

In the tin whistle competition played at the Gorge Vale Golf Club, Sunday, J. Cunningham was the winner with a score of 68. Alan Wright was runner-up with 62 and V. Clarkson third with 58.

Flyers Register One-sided Win Over Navy Cagers

Praise the Lord and pass the opposition—it looks as if senior basketball in Victoria this year has come down to an Army vs. R.C.A.F. proposition.

The unknown factor, Navy, stepped out on the floor at the Sports Centre Saturday night to do battle with the airmen and left the court with all the battle they were capable of absorbing. The score was 67 to 22.

The flyers from Pat Bay dominated play the whole evening, and were never once in trouble with their smaller and less experienced opponents. Early in the first quarter they ran and score to 12 to 0 before the sailors got a hoop. From then on they continued going away. At half time the score was 34 to 13.

BAKER SCORES 23

Leading the air force attack was Norman "Swede" Baker. In brilliant form, the lad who led Dominions to the Dominion championship last spring, dropped in 23 points.

Porky Andrews, playing his last game here before reporting for duty to his training station back on the prairies, had a night out also, and scored 17 points. And just to wind matters up in a proper way, another ex-Domino, Busher Jackson, was third in the scoring list with 16 points, all field hoops.

Sedgewick, Primer and Kennedy led the Navy attack with six points each. Baulb with one and Sellers with three points completed their damage for the evening.

JOE GUNSON DEAD

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Gunson, 79, the man who revolutionized baseball by inventing the catcher's mitt, died at his home here Sunday. The mitt was born of necessity on Memorial Day, 1888, when a foul tip injured Gunson's fingers when he was the only catcher with Kansas City in the old American Association. Gunson fashioned a mitt to protect his injured fingers.

WEEK-END SCORES

Detroit 5, Canadiens 2.
Detroit 3, Canadiens 1.
Chicago 4, Toronto 3.
Chicago 5, Toronto 4.
Boston 5, Rangers 3.
Boston 4, Rangers 3.

Double victories by three teams highlighted the National Hockey League's crowded third week-end of competition.

Detroit R. Wings profited most by the exchanges, defeating Montreal Canadiens twice to slip back into undisputed possession of first place. Chicago Black Hawks climbed into second spot two points behind the Wings with a pair of close triumphs over Toronto Maple Leafs. The second meeting at Chicago Sunday was a wild engagement.

Boston Bruins rode to their season's first successes, trampling New York Rangers twice. The double triumph moved Bruins into a fifth-place tie with their beaten rivals.

Flash Hollett and Buzz Boll fired the telling shots in Boston's two-try killing. Boll scored the fourth and fifth goals in the 5 to 3 Saturday triumph over the Rangers and assisted in two others. Hollett's third-period goal broke a 3 to 3 tie in the Sunday contest.

At Chicago the winning goal in Hawks' 5 to 4 Sunday victory was counted by Bill Thoms. He tallied one other goal while two of the Chicago tallies were sniped by Robert (Red) Hamill, one of the league's hottest scorers so far this season.

Gaye Stewart lessened the gloom somewhat for Leafs by scoring two brilliantly-executed goals, one in each game. Both were the best individual efforts of each game and served to strengthen Stewart's already strong claim for rookie honors.

Veteran Mud Bruneteau sparked Red Wings to the 5 to 3 triumph over Canadiens Saturday. In the Sunday game the crack Detroit line of Don Grosso, Sid Abel and Eddie Wabes showed signs of old-time form, collecting a goal apiece for the 3 to 1 verdict.

Although Montreal Canadiens dropped two games to Detroit Red Wings over the week-end, Gordie Drillon held his position as leading scorer in the National Hockey League.

Carl Liscombe, the nearest Red Wing to Drillon, did not register in the week-end scoring. Lynn Patrick of Rangers moved into second place when he scored two goals and one assist again.

Every element which goes to make up a great picture is combined in RKO Radio's "The Big Street," Damon Runyon's production of his own famous short story, "Little Pinks," starring Henry Fonda and Lucille Ball, coming to the Dominion Theatre tomorrow.

Silhouetted against the background of typical New York and Florida night spots and resort centres, the film combines a soul-stirring love story, tense drama, sparkling Runyonesque comedy, elaborate sets and tuneful music. In addition, it presents 50 assorted types of Broadway habits, interpreted by Sam Levene, Barton MacLane, Marion Martin, Eugene Pallette, Vera Gordon, Ray Collins and others. Musical numbers are played by Ozzie Nelson and his band.

From conducting a popular swing band in New York to accepting the nomination for President of the United States in Washington is the amazing experience of John Shepperd... in 20th Century-Fox's studios in Hollywood, of course.

This remarkable casting in entirely different roles only serves to illustrate the versatility of this up-and-coming young actor. And John Shepperd will never have to worry about being "typed." The "Cadet Girl," starring Carole Landis and George Montgomery, Shepperd played the role of a night club tune baron. The decision to use John as the presidential nominee, Dewey Roberts, in "Remember the Day," starring Claudette Colbert and scheduled today at the York Theatre, came after a month of seeking the right person. John Shepperd measured up to all the requirements.

Three film stars of yesterday have met a young star of tomorrow and have given their blessings to the youngster for a most successful screen career.

The stars of the past are Maurice Costello, Eileen Pringle and Jack Mulhall. Tomorrow's star is Diana Barrymore, 21-year-old daughter of the late John Barrymore and who is carrying on the acting tradition of the Barrymore family.

The meeting of the four took place at Universal studios during the filming of "Between Us Girls," in which Miss Barrymore co-stars with Robert Cummings. The modern comedy now at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres was produced and directed by Henry Kostor. Kay Francis, John Boles, Andy Devine and other notables are featured.

Miss Pringle, Costello and Mulhall—all of whom had worked with Miss Barrymore's late father in former days—are playing supporting roles in the same picture.

Ginger Rogers
In 'The Major'

When it comes time again to present that famous Academy Award, "Oscar," the vivacious lady who won it once before with her work as "Kitty Foyle," ought to be very much in the running. We're talking about Ginger Rogers, and after you see her—with Ray Milland—in Paramount's very funny movie, "The Major and the Minor," you'll be talking about her, too!

The picture, which opens today at the Capitol Theatre, to the obvious huge delight of a highly-entertained audience, is far and away the best comedy flashed on any screen in a long, long time. It sparkles with clever lines, unusual situations and a refreshingly different romance. Its originality is highlighted by especially outstanding performances from Ginger Rogers and Ray Milland, each of whom is an excellent comedian in his own right—as well as by fine work contributed by Rita Johnson, Robert Benchley, Diana Lynn and Ginger's own mother, Lela Rogers. ## Victoria Schools Receive Gas Masks

A shipment of 10,000 civilian gas masks arrived in Victoria today and will be immediately forwarded to the city's 18 schools for distribution to student bodies.

Distribution of gas respirators to the general public will start in a day or so from depots at the City Hall and the Eagles' Home. The cost of a gas mask to those able to pay will be $1.25. On making a declaration that he cannot afford the cost a person will receive a mask free.

A. S. G. Musgrave, Oak Bay A.R.P. controller, said today he thought gas mask distribution to Oak Bay citizens would begin next week. The necessary machinery for distributing the masks will be set up following a meeting of patrol leaders tonight.

Esquimalt district A.R.P. wardens are also meeting tonight to decide how they will distribute the civilian respirators. Saanich A.R.P. is also making plans for distributing respirators.

None of the municipalities have received gas masks yet although Oak Bay and Saanich have the respirators on order.

Slow Start Made In Hall-Simmons Police Pants' Case

An objection by Stuart Henderson, counsel for George H. Hall, and an outline of the case by J. E. Clearhue, K.C., crown prosecutor with W. C. Moresby, K.C., took up the major part of this morning's sitting of the Assize Court as Hall, managing director of Hall & Co. Ltd., went on trial with L. J. Simmons, former B.C. police quartermaster, on a charge of conspiring to defraud the government.

Henderson's objection, based largely on his contention the indictment covered at least eight charges, which he said, should have been listed separately, was overruled. The form of the indictment, defence counsel contended, provided the crown with two many avenues of proof. It was unfair, counsel said.

Moresby replied the indictment was drawn according to the standard form.

RULED OUT

Mr. Justice Sidney Smith, presiding, ruled out the objection, stating a similar charge had been discussed before him at the last Vancouver Assizes.

Following the ruling Hall pleaded not guilty and his plea was recorded in that form, although Henderson applied to amend by having the accused enter no plea. Simmons declined to plead and the court listed a plea of not guilty on his behalf.

The jury was selected as follows: Wm. E. Crisford (foreman), James Evans, Earl Blake Nelson, Henry Frank Jarvis, Ian Richard Malcolm, Chas. H. Harrison, Wm. A. Newcombe, Edward John Fatt, Francis Henry H. Pardey, Leo Eugene Evenden, Ellison G. Quale and Roy Copas.

In his outline to the jury, Clearhue stated the case arose from an alleged false invoice for 200 pairs of police pants reportedly never delivered to the government, and for which the government paid $2,400. The sum in question was later returned, crown counsel said, outlining the circumstances.

Teacher Shortage Closes 30 Schools

Shortage of teachers has kept 30 rural B.C. schools closed, Hon. G. T. Perry, Minister of Education, said today. When school opened in September 55 schools were closed. Since then 25 teachers have been obtained.

The minister said, however, that the teacher shortage is greater than appears from these figures. There are 111 persons, with temporary certificates, teaching today in B.C. schools.

Mr. Perry said children in areas where schools have had to close are receiving their education by correspondence. He said also there are many more high school correspondence courses being taken now than a year ago—by boys and girls who have left school to work in war industry.

"The situation is not nearly as bad as we feared it would be," the minister said, in regard to the teacher shortage. "We have not nearly as many schools closed, relative to population, as other provinces."

Mr. Perry, in a brief review of education in the province at the present time, said there are approximately 120,000 students and 4,200 teachers in B.C.

North Saanich School Opened

On Nov. 10 guests, parents and trustees gathered for a brief ceremony to mark the opening of the new one-room elementary school, now known as the McTavish Road Elementary School.

A. Sansbury, chairman of the board of school trustees, acted as chairman. In his introductory remarks he summarized the reasons for the new structure, congratulated the new trustees on the manner in which they had supported the board in its endeavors to provide new educational facilities, and called upon them for fullest co-operation in the future.

W. G. Gamble, provincial inspector of schools for the district, complimented the board on the modernistic design of the school, and H. W. Dutton, the builder, for the fine workmanship in construction. Mr. Gamble stressed the value of democratic education.

Dr. H. T. Coleman, former dean of U.B.C. and now a resident of Deep Cove, told the children and guests the story of "The Flag."

The sum of $93 was raised for a war relief fund as the result of the successful concert given at the Victoria Truth Centre by Edgar Holloway, pianist, and David Oldham, baritone, assisted by H. U. Knight, who showed camera sketches in color. The hall was crowded, many of the audience standing throughout the program.

TOWN TOPICS

Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands and Municipal Affairs, who suffered a heart attack two weeks ago, has recovered sufficiently to leave hospital and is now recuperating at his New Westminster home.

Considerable damage was caused, but there were no personal injuries at 7:50 this morning, when autos driven by W. J. Knott, 2866 Colquitz Avenue, and C. Beard, 304 Oswego Street, collided at the intersection of Douglas and Belleville.

Sir Robert Holland will speak on "India, the Next Phase," at the luncheon being held in Spencer's dining-room Wednesday at 12, for members of the Victoria Music Teachers' Association and the Victoria branch of the Canadian Authors' Association.

Attorney-General R. L. Maitland and Agriculture Minister K. C. MacDonald left today for Chase where they will speak tomorrow evening in support of Mayor C. Thomson, coalition government candidate in the Nov. 25 Salmon Arm by-election.

A decision by the City Council on the board of arbitration cost-of-living bonus award is sought in a letter from the arbitration section of the Department of Labor on file at the City Hall today.

"The department would be appreciative of having the decision of the council upon the acceptance or rejection of the award as soon as possible," the letter said.

Another quiz program will be featured on the parent-teacher hour tonight at 7 over station CJVI. Mount Douglas P.T.A. team: Mrs. U. Jupp, Mrs. E. Reid, Mrs. L. C. Curtis, W. Newton and Gordon Hawks. Oaklands P.T.A. team: Mrs. J. Ferguson, Mrs. C. F. Foxall, Miss Joan Velthe, T. J. Inkpen and A. M. Patterson. G. H. Bevan-Pritchard, principal of Burnside School, will keep score.

The Victoria Photographic Association Salon held in the Empress Hotel recently proved to be a "Who's Who" of photography on this continent, according to a letter of congratulation received by Irvine Dawson, salon director, from Fred Knoop, editor of a well-known American photographic magazine. Mr. Knoop praised the interesting catalogue, in which, he said, he noticed many familiar names, and expressed the hope that the association's salons would be maintained during the war.

Colonel Returns

Lt. Col. R. V. C. Bessonetie, R.C.E., will return to Victoria tomorrow afternoon. Eighteen months ago Col. Bessonetie was called out of retirement, and went to Winnipeg to take charge of the engineering staff of the Manitoba district. Prior to his retirement he has been on the staff of Military District 11, with headquarters at Work Point Barracks. He has now been placed on the retirement list and will take up his residence with Mrs. Bessonetie on Admirals Road.

Jobs Go Begging

Two perfectly good jobs in the picturesque, booming northland of British Columbia are going begging.

For days now there have been signs hanging on walls and doorways in the Parliament Buildings asking for two stenographers for the government agency in Pouce Coupe—but there have been no takers.

The government is even offering to pay traveling expenses to Pouce Coupe.

Canada Unity Subject For Tonight's Lecture

Professor J. A. Irving of the University of British Columbia arrived today to deliver at Victoria College the season's second University Extension lecture to-night at 8:15. His subject will be "The Search for an Idea: Canadian Unity." The committee today drew attention to the change from the Junior High School, where lectures have been held recently, to the College, which was the original place for them. It was also pointed out that to-night's lecture is open to the public as well as to members.

Navy League to Open Hostel in Vancouver

H. R. Gillard of Toronto, representing the Navy League of Canada, today called on Hon. G. T. Perry, Minister of Education, and asked him to move the Pro-Rec institution from the building it now occupies in Vancouver, and which has been purchased by the league for use as a seamen's hostel, along the same lines as Prince Robert House in Victoria. T. J. Howarth accompanied Mr. Gillard and before returning to Vancouver they called on Premier Hart.

Blind Makers Fall Behind With Orders For City Dimout

Drapery department managers of Victoria department stores predicted today hundreds of Victorians will have to turn out their lights Wednesday night when the dimout comes into effect because they will have no blinds and drapes to darken their windows.

Two department store drapery departments reported they each had over 1,000 unfilled orders for window shades and they did not have the staff nor the time to make these window shades before Wednesday.

The demand for blackout drapes and heavy window shades reached a record high Saturday when hundreds of householders sent in orders to department stores. Managers said they would be unable to fill by the dimout deadline orders received since Friday.

One store reported all the necessary materials were available for making the shades while another said supplies on hand for making window blinds and blackout drapes were not sufficient to supply orders made already and there was no hope of receiving more materials before Wednesday.

Drapery department managers reported the dimout will have been in effect a week before they catch up with their orders for window blinds and blackout drapes.

MOTORISTS BETTER

Motorists will be more fortunate than householders, however, as a number of stores reported they have headlight blackouts on hand in sufficient numbers to fill the anticipated demands.

In the meantime, Inspector A. H. Bishop, Victoria A.R.P. controller, urged the public to immediately make preparations for dimming out their homes, while those on the waterfront should blackout all windows facing the sea.

He suggested janitors should be specially warned that while working at night they must pull all blinds so that no lights are shown towards the waterfront, and no glare is shown skyward.

The inspector said special notice should be taken of skylights which must be blacked out. He noted the dimout did not replace the blackout, which will be called in time of emergency, and reminded the public a practice blackout was being planned for Dec. 7.

Inspector S. F. M. Moodie and other members of the Advisory Council, Provincial Civilian Protection Committee, who prepared the dimout regulations, will be in Victoria Wednesday night to observe the effect.

Baptists Missionary Conference Held

The United Baptist missionary conference held this week-end in the First Baptist Church concluded Sunday evening with a challenging address by Dr. J. B. MacLaurin, secretary, Canadian Baptist Mission Board. Dr. MacLaurin who served for some years on the Canadian Baptist Mission Field in India spoke feelingly of the position of the church in a war torn world and the testing time through which she is passing during this wide world conflict.

The conference opened at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at which session E. E. Anderson of Edmonton, president of the Baptist Union of Western Canada led a discussion on "Problems Which Confront Us at the Present Day," dealing especially with work among the "new Canadians" in western Canada. During the afternoon Dr. MacLaurin reviewed the work on the Telegu Field, India, and also Bolivia, South America. In speaking of the work in India he pointed out the effects of the war as Viazagapatam and Cocanada two centres of work in the Telegu Field have already been blitzed by the Japanese. He also dealt with the political unrest in India and the economic status of the people. In concluding the afternoon session Dr. MacLaurin presented plans for post-war reconstruction in the missionary work of the Canadian Baptists in India and Bolivia.

Supper was served at 6 after which Dr. MacLaurin gave an illustrated lecture on his recent visit to the Canadian Baptist mission work in Bolivia in which he traced the growth of the work which was commenced in 1898. Rev. Wilfrid L. McKay, president of the Island Baptist Association presided over the Saturday sessions, and the service Sunday evening was conducted by Rev. G. A. Reynolds, assisted by Rev. F. W. McKinnon and Rev. L. L. McKay.

The annual meeting of the Victoria Provincial Conservative Association will be held in Conservative rooms, 738 Fort Street, Wednesday, at 8. Officers will be elected.

Jackson Dodds Soon to Retire

MONTREAL (CP) — Jackson Dodds of Montreal has decided to retire as joint general manager of the Bank of Montreal, ending a distinguished career of 45 years in the banking world.

An announcement by the bank directors, which made no mention of a possible successor, said the directors had acceded to Mr. Dodds' request for retirement from "active service" with "great regret."

Mr. Dodds, 61, and a native of London, Eng., entered the banking field in 1897 with the London, Eng. branch of the Comptoir National d'Escompte de Paris and later joined the Bank of British North America, serving with it in various capacities in Canada and then for a time in London.

In 1919, after 18 years with that institution, he entered the employ of the Bank of Montreal, serving as assistant manager of the main office in London, Eng., for a time and then transferring to western Canada, first as district superintendent of Manitoba branches and later as assistant manager in charge of western branches. In 1928, he came to Montreal as assistant general manager, becoming joint general manager in 1930.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Coastguard sources said today the lumber schooner Susan Olson foundered and sank in heavy seas off the southern Oregon coast Sunday, but that all the crew, approximately 25 men, reached safety in Humboldt Bay.

The crew, in two lifeboats, was picked up by a fishing vessel, the sources said. The Susan Olson was owned by the Oliver J. Olson Company of San Francisco.

Shortage of Eggs Until December

According to information from Wholesale Row today, the current egg shortage will probably continue until December when it is expected to be alleviated to some extent.

This is the time of year when chickens slow down their production and in addition many of the few eggs they are laying are being converted into egg powder for use in Great Britain.

In Victoria's immediate farming region, the chickens, when laying at capacity, supply only 25 per cent of the city's normal demand. The other 75 per cent is imported from the mainland. Due to the aforementioned factors Vancouver is using almost the entire present production of the Fraser Valley and Victoria wholesalers are unable to obtain any eggs from the mainland.

Wholesalers announced today that the price of hothouse tomatoes had dropped 50 cents a case over the week-end. A carload of Valencia oranges arrived in the city today. A car of Texas grapefruit is expected this week.

Eastern cranberries are now on the market, with most of the Christmas supply coming in last week. A carload of Macintosh Red apples arrived here today and are expected to sell quickly.

Wholesalers say there is no more local lettuce but small shipments of the California variety are arriving daily. Indicative of the shortage of sacking, a carload of potatoes arrived today in 50-pound paper bags.

Small shipments of bananas and California dates are expected this week.

4 Saanich Schools Open Later, Nov. 18

The Saanich School Board announces that at the request of the majority of the parents of children attending schools in Ward Six, Saanich, the pupils of Saanichton, West Saanich and Keating elementary schools will start their lessons at 9:30. They will be dismissed at 3:30 p.m. The regular lunch hour from 12 to 1 will be adhered to.

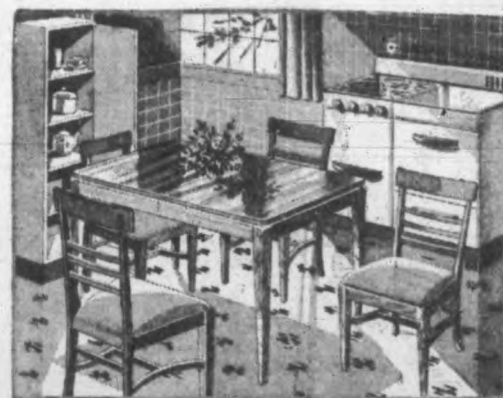

Pupils attending Mount Newton High School will commence work at 9:30 and continue to 3:30.

The new schedule will go into effect, Wednesday. It is expected this change will be of great help to children who have to walk several miles to school on dark mornings.

All other Saanich schools will continue to operate on their present time schedule until further notice.

Hall, after conviction in police court today on a charge of stealing an automobile Nov. 6, property of National Motors, Yates Street. Aspinall had pleaded not guilty last week and conducted his own case. Previous convictions of car-theft in 1936 and 1938 at Edmonton were read against him.

Aspinall told the court the car was lent to him by a man named Williams, who subsequently went to Vancouver, and whom he had not since seen.

Magistrate Hall refused to believe the story. In his evidence Aspinall disclosed that he had been A.W.O.L. from the army since March of this year.

War Changes Yule Shopping But Substitutes Fill Breach

This year Christmas brings new scope for ingenuity as war conditions curtail many of the old standbys of the season's trade and substitutes must be found.

With all metals going into munitions, wooden toys have come back into their own. These are mostly of Canadian manufacture, though some shipments, particularly games, are still being received from the United Kingdom.

Christmas stockings in the familiar red netting will still be available, but in limited quantities.

Toys with the "Made in Japan" stamp are a thing of the past, along with Jap oranges, which are being replaced with the much sweeter tangerines from Florida. SWEETMEATS UNOBTAINABLE.

Some seasonal delicacies will be missed, including crystallized fruits, marzipan, after-dinner sweets and nuts.

Shipments of cluster raisins from Australia subsidized by the Canadian government have already been exhausted, but California is sending avocados, grapes, pomegranates and small quantities of dried fruits. Jonathan apples, Spitzbergers and winter bananas are abundant. Express rates for crates applied to the prairies are cut practically in half until Nov. 30 as a special concession to encourage consumption and avoid waste.

Rows of boxes marked "Made in Great Britain" on the shelves of a local importer of British sweets proved to be brimful of cake decorations, holly piquets and miniature Santa Clauses. Manufacturers are advocating the use of paper cake frills in the absence of sugar icing, Britishers ported a good supply of woolen goods on hand.

Primrose Lodge, Daughters of England, met Friday for annual past-presidents' night. Mrs. E. Skett, past president, presided. President, Mrs. G. Jennings, and Mrs. C. Smith, acting District Deputy, and president of Princess Alexandra Lodge, each received a corsage bouquet. Refreshments were served. Mrs. L. Melville reported on work for Overseas League. Letters were received from boys overseas who had received cigarettes from the order. A dance will be held after the next meeting, at which men of the R.C.A.F. will be guests. A rummage sale will be held Nov. 21 at 571 Johnson Street. Parcels may be left at the hall. Mrs. F. Wyman is convener.

W.A. to Forestry Corps Overseas meet Friday at the Y.W.C.A. President Mrs. S. W. Raven in the chair. Mrs. P. E. Corby and Mrs. H. C. Pearce are co-workers for a dance to take place Dec. 3, at the Crystal Garden. Tickets may be obtained from members. Miss Bertha Morley reported having sent a parcel to a sick boy in Scotland, and also sending cigarettes. Next meeting at the home of Mrs. W. E. Akenhead, 3124 Quadra Street, Nov. 26 at 2.30. A cable of congratulations from the W.A. was sent to Sgt. A. Corby who was married Saturday in Scotland.

St. Paul's W.A. met recently, when final plans were made for the winter fair, Dec. 3, at 7.30, in the parish hall. Home cooking and preserves are in charge of Mrs. Maynard; plain sewing and baby stall, Mrs. Hammond; refreshments, Mrs. Devenish; "hot dogs," doughnuts, Mrs. Abbott. A concert will be given, by Esquimalt Glee Club and band at 8.15.

Saskatchewan W.A. met recently at Douglas Hotel. Plans were completed for the dance to be held tonight at 9 at A.O.F. Hall with Irvine's orchestra. The committee reported having sent parcels to boys serving overseas and in the Middle East. Plans are under way to entertain 25 of the forces the last Sunday in the month. The wool committee re-being determined to create a spirit of festivity in spite of war restrictions.

SHORTAGE OF CHOCOLATES

Empty candy counters in several stores bear mute witness to the shortage of chocolates, as shipments from eastern Canada are awaited. One proprietor said that even last Christmas, when most of the stores were well stocked to begin with, chocolate supplies ran out rapidly. This year there is a maximum allowance of only 70 per cent of last December's sales, and no stock on hand.

New stocks of hardware, electrical supplies and, of course, rubber goods, are virtually impossible to obtain, and restricting of variety applies to every line of goods, including cosmetics, towels, crockery, cutlery and stationery, which will be of poorer color due to lack of chlorine for bleaching.

WARTIME HOSE PROBLEM

Bemberg, which is a rayon product, and lisle, a cotton mixture, are bound to take the place of silk and nylon, for there will be absolutely no more of either of these until after the war. Rayon is becoming perfected until its appearance is comparable to real silk; its disadvantages are inelasticity, and the need for 36 hours' drying time as against half until Nov. 30 as a special concession to encourage consumption and avoid waste.

Substitutes for tea and coffee are already on the market. These are often made of grain, fruit and vegetable flavoring.

For every commodity that disappears due to difficulties of shipping and production a substitute is being found, so that people may suffer as little inconvenience as possible without hindering the war effort.

Clubwomen's News

Queen City Chapter, Order Eastern Star, will hold the annual sale of work at Y.W.C.A. Wednesday. The bazaar will be opened by Miss Ada Lacey, past worthy grand matron, at 3 p.m. The stalls, fancy work, home cooking, flower and variety, will be decorated with patriotic colors, also the tearoom. Cards will be played in the evening at 8, with prizes and refreshments. Proceeds will go toward the philanthropic work of the chapter.

W.A. to Forestry Corps Overseas meet Friday at the Y.W.C.A. President Mrs. S. W. Raven in the chair. Mrs. P. E. Corby and Mrs. H. C. Pearce are co-workers for a dance to take place Dec. 3, at the Crystal Garden. Tickets may be obtained from members. Miss Bertha Morley reported having sent a parcel to a sick boy in Scotland, and also sending cigarettes. Next meeting at the home of Mrs. W. E. Akenhead, 3124 Quadra Street, Nov. 26 at 2.30. A cable of congratulations from the W.A. was sent to Sgt. A. Corby who was married Saturday in Scotland.

St. Paul's W.A. met recently, when final plans were made for the winter fair, Dec. 3, at 7.30, in the parish hall. Home cooking and preserves are in charge of Mrs. Maynard; plain sewing and baby stall, Mrs. Hammond; refreshments, Mrs. Devenish; "hot dogs," doughnuts, Mrs. Abbott. A concert will be given, by Esquimalt Glee Club and band at 8.15.

Saskatchewan W.A. met recently at Douglas Hotel. Plans were completed for the dance to be held tonight at 9 at A.O.F. Hall with Irvine's orchestra. The committee reported having sent parcels to boys serving overseas and in the Middle East. Plans are under way to entertain 25 of the forces the last Sunday in the month. The wool committee re-being determined to create a spirit of festivity in spite of war restrictions.

SHORTAGE OF CHOCOLATES

Empty candy counters in several stores bear mute witness to the shortage of chocolates, as shipments from eastern Canada are awaited. One proprietor said that even last Christmas, when most of the stores were well stocked to begin with, chocolate supplies ran out rapidly. This year there is a maximum allowance of only 70 per cent of last December's sales, and no stock on hand.

New stocks of hardware, electrical supplies and, of course, rubber goods, are virtually impossible to obtain, and restricting of variety applies to every line of goods, including cosmetics, towels, crockery, cutlery and stationery, which will be of poorer color due to lack of chlorine for bleaching.

WARTIME HOSE PROBLEM

Bemberg, which is a rayon product, and lisle, a cotton mixture, are bound to take the place of silk and nylon, for there will be absolutely no more of either of these until after the war. Rayon is becoming perfected until its appearance is comparable to real silk; its disadvantages are inelasticity, and the need for 36 hours' drying time as against half until Nov. 30 as a special concession to encourage consumption and avoid waste.

Substitutes for tea and coffee are already on the market. These are often made of grain, fruit and vegetable flavoring.

For every commodity that disappears due to difficulties of shipping and production a substitute is being found, so that people may suffer as little inconvenience as possible without hindering the war effort.

Brothers Overseas

longing to the group A streptococci family have been isolated from patients with scarlet fever. In any single community, however, the sporadic cases are due to only a few types and epidemic cases to only one type, the scientists reported.

Strains capable of causing scarlet fever, called scarlatogenic, are present sometimes in communities free from the disease, which raises the question, what causes an epidemic to start? The New York scientists answer the question as follows:

"For scarlet fever to occur in a community, a scarlatogenic strain of streptococcus must be present or introduced. The number of cases of infection which follow depends on the distribution factor as measured by the carrier rate. Low carrier rates mean only sporadic cases; high rates accompany epidemics.

"A part of the population is never reached by the streptococcus. These naturally remain well. Of the others who become infected, some have antibacterial immunity; they either eliminate the organism immediately or become healthy carriers.

"Those without antibacterial immunity become ill; the kind of illness is determined by the antitoxic immunity. If immune, the patient develops streptococcal tonsillitis; if not, scarlet fever. Other diseases such as erysipelas and necrotic fever may result with portals of entry other than the throat."

Sgt. Pilot Bob "Red" Mason, R.C.A.F., and Pte. Joe Mason, 20th Armored Corps, sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mason, 1342 Merritt Street, both of whom are overseas.

"Red," who joined the R.C.A.F. last year arrived in Britain recently. Joe has been in the Old Country since August.

Both attended Victoria High School here, "Red" being well known in local sports, at one time playing for the James Bay lacrosse team, B.C. intermediate champions.

Another son, J. L. Mason, is serving in the Royal Canadian Navy, enlisting two years ago.

6 Firemen Killed In Boston Blaze

BOSTON (AP)—In one of the greatest tolls taken by a Boston fire since the turn of the century, six firemen are dead and two score others are in hospital after old Almor Hall in Maverick Square, east Boston.

Fire Chief Samuel Pope said the fire started in grease on the kitchen stove of a restaurant Sunday morning. He estimated damage to the four-story structure at $45,000. In addition, a $20,000 aerial ladder truck was crushed when a wall of the building collapsed.

Firemen apparently had it under control and a number of them had entered the building to quell the remaining flames when a wall on the street side collapsed without warning, causing the death of the six firemen and temporarily trapping others.

It was hours before some of the bodies trapped under fallen beams, were removed. Three giant cranes aided in lifting away the debris.

14,703 New Houses

OTTAWA (CP)—Wartime Housing Ltd., government-owned company with operations now extending to more than 60 centres across Canada, has awarded contracts for nearly 15,000 houses and other buildings costing an estimated $66,000,000, the Munitions Department said today. The total includes 14,611 houses, 92 staff houses, 10 dining halls and 26 special buildings.

26 Germ Types In Scarlet Fever

ST. LOUIS—Most important factor in the making of a scarlet fever epidemic in any community is the condition of the environment and specifically the number of persons in the community carrying scarlet fever germs, Dr. Francis F. Schwenker and Dr. John H. Janney of the Rockefeller Foundation, New York, declared at the meeting here of the American Public Health Association.

3 Veteran Priests Honored By Bishop

Rt. Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Bishop of British Columbia, has conferred the title of canon on three veteran clergymen of his diocese, Revs. William Bartop, M.A., A. W. Corker and H. St. John Payne, M.A.

The title, while it does not include membership in the Cathedral Chapter, is a recognition of faithful and valued service rendered by these clergymen to the church and community over many years.

CANON BARTON

Rev. William Barton, M.A., is a graduate of Bishop's College, Lennoxville, and was ordained deacon by the Bishop of Quebec in 1896, and advanced to the priesthood in the following year. He served in the Diocese of Quebec for 10 years after his ordination, coming to British Columbia as vicar of Chemainus in 1907. In 1909 he became priest-vicar of Christ Church Cathedral here. He served with distinction as a chaplain to the Canadian Expeditionary Force in the First Great War, and was advanced to senior rank. On his return from active service, he was appointed as rector of Sidney and Patricia Bay, but was compelled by ill-health to resign in 1920, since when he has held the bishop's special licence to officiate in the diocese.

CANON CORKER

Rev. Arthur William Corker came to British Columbia in 1899 under the auspices of the Church Missionary Society as a lay missionary to the Indians in the Alert Bay district, and he remained in this area until 1925. After 24 years of devoted lay service, he was ordained in 1913, and was appointed priest-in-charge of the Alert Bay Mission in 1917. He established the Indian residential school and became its first principal. On his retirement from the Indian missionary work in 1925, he undertook the charge of Comox. He is still engaged in active work in that district, where his labors have been crowned by the erection and consecration of a new and beautiful church.

CANON PAYNE

Rev. Hubert St. John Payne, M.A., is a graduate of Pembroke College, Cambridge, and was ordained deacon in 1894, and priest in 1895 by the Bishop of London. After serving curacies in London, he came to British Columbia in 1903. In 1906, he was appointed Vicar of St. Paul's, Esquimalt. Returning to England in 1910, he became vicar of Over Peover in Cheshire. From 1912 to 1932, he served the diocese and in an honorary capacity. Subsequently he undertook the charge of Colwood and Langford, and was assistant priest at St. Mary's Oak Bay.

bought by people in the professions

Of eight thousand life insurance policies and annuities issued by Imperial Life last year, over six hundred were taken by men and women in the professions.

How logical! In many cases the entire financial resources of doctors, dentists, teachers, lawyers and engineers consist only of the income earned daily in their professional duties.

Truly, ownership by a professional man or woman of an Imperial Life policy is one dependable, comforting assurance of future financial security for themselves—and for their dependents—whatever may happen.

Nearly eight thousand men and women in many other occupations also became Imperial policyholders last year. To a large cross-section of the people of Canada, The Imperial Life is "my insurance company." Does your present life insurance meet your needs of today?

Navy Week to Recognize Work of Canada's Sailors

Recognition of the great work which the men of the navy and merchant navy are doing in keeping the sea lanes open for United Nations in the most ruthless war of all time will be given next week when the Navy League of Canada will celebrate Navy Week throughout Canada.

Newspapers and radio will carry special articles and broadcasts through the co-operation of the Department of Naval Information and the Navy League divisions with the object of acquainting the public with the work of the men of the two services who are daily making history afloat in combatting the deadly submarine menace and seeing to it that the munitions and supplies necessary to help win the war are getting through.

An appeal will also be made by the Navy League of Canada, as in former years, for cash contributions which will help in making the lot of the sailor easier in the performance of his duties afloat.

LOCAL PROGRAM

Arrangements for the local program are in the hands of Cmdr. Charles T. Beard, R.C.N., retired president of the Victoria and Island division of the Navy League of Canada, and Dr. T. A. Rickard, chairman of the committee.

Among the speakers over C.J.V.I. next week will be Commodore W. J. R. Beech, R.C.N., commanding officer, Pacific coast, and Capt. R. W. McMurray, manager of the B.C. Coast Force of the C.P.R., who will deal with the navy and merchant service respectively. The time of these broadcasts have yet to be arranged, but it is expected that Commodore Beech will speak Nov. 23.

H. R. GILLARD DUE

H. R. Gillard, managing secretary of the Navy League of Canada, is expected to arrive in the city within the next few days when further details of the program will be available. "Ships Mean Victory" has been issued in the form of a pamphlet embracing the vital arm of sea defence and will be distributed among the schools throughout the co-operation of the Department of Education.

The Rainbow Sea Cadets will participate in the local program, but the new cadet headquarters at West Bay will, unfortunately, not be ready for official opening until a later date.

The Navy League of Canada has arranged for national broadcasts and Navy Minister Angus Macdonald has been requested to make the first talk over the air. Lt. Cmdr. William Strange will give an address on "What the Navy is Doing" to the Empire Club in Toronto and this message will be broadcast over sta-

Home on Leave

STOKER P.O. HARRY O'FLYNN, R.C.N., who recently returned to his ship, H.M.C.S. Oakville, after spending a month's leave with his wife and small daughter at their home, 902 Admirals Road.

P.O. Flynn was aboard H.M.C.S. Oakville when the ship sank a German submarine recently. He has been in the navy since the war started and on the East Coast for the last year and a half.

Son of Chief F.R.A. and Mrs. Peter O'Flynn, 314 Dallas Road, he was born and educated in Vancouver and worked for the C.P.R. coast service before joining the navy. His father is also stationed on the East Coast.

tion CBY. Arthur Randles, director of merchant marine, is expected to broadcast Nov. 20 from the Merchant Seamen's Club in Montreal.

"Comrades in Arms" for Nov. 20 will feature a Malta convoy story for which basic material has been supplied by Lieut. Marcell. The program for Nov. 27 will consist of a variety entertainment from the stage of CBC Playhouse.

Officers and men of three ships, H.M.C.S. Sackville, Buctouche and Picton are listed. Citations covering the awards to men of each ship refer to "the almost certain destruction of one enemy U-boat and the probable damaging of another; 'great ability in directing attacks on an enemy U-boat; and 'coolness and daring' in carrying out 'a most promising depth-charge attack'."

Lieut. Easton, of H.M.C.S. Sackville, received the D.S.C. for "distinguished services before the enemy."

The citation says he was the commanding officer of the Sackville when a U-boat was sighted on the surface. "He immediately shaped course to ram, and through skilful handling of his ship and devotion to duty, contributed to the almost certain destruction of one U-boat and the probable damaging of another."

Acting LS. Medford was awarded the D.S.M. for "devotion to duty and courageous service before the enemy."

"By prompt action in laying and firing the four-inch gun in an engagement with a U-boat in thick fog, caused damage to the U-boat and thus made a substantial contribution to the result of the engagement," his citation says.

Lieut. Osborne, of H.M.C.S. Sackville, was mentioned in dispatches for "courage, resolution and devotion to duty in action against enemy U-boats."

"This officer, by his untiring work, actively assisted the commanding officer in bringing the ship to a high state of fighting efficiency. His prompt action in directing the four-inch gun in such a manner as to inflict damage upon an enemy U-boat contributed substantially to the result of an engagement between H.M.C.S. Sackville and an enemy U-boat."

John Bing, of H.M.C.S. Buctouche, was cited as follows:

"This rating, as a submarine detector operator, rendered good and effective service in action during attacks on an enemy U-boat."

Before a crowd of army, navy and state officials, the five 144-foot combination freight and passenger ships for the army transport service slipped one after the other down the ways of the Northwestern Shipbuilding Company's yards.

Brig. Gen. Ely P. Denson, commander of the Seattle port of embarkation, accepted them for the army.

Saturday the Bellingham Marine Ways and Boat Building Company launched H.M.S. Lincoln, a marine salvage vessel for the British navy and its eighth mine-sweeper for the U.S. navy.

The ship was christened by Mrs. Stephen Monden, wife of one of the workmen in the plant.

Eastern Launching

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT (CP) — A 10,000-ton freighter, the Fort Maisonneuve, was launched here Saturday, as 6,000 shipyard workers looked on. The ship was christened by Mrs. Stephen Monden, wife of one of the workmen in the plant.

Navy Men Honored For War Service

OTTAWA (CP) — Navy Minister Macdonald announces the King has approved the award of one Distinguished Service Cross and one Distinguished Service Medal to an officer and rating serving with the Royal Canadian Navy and the mention in dispatches of 11 other officers and ratings.

Awarded the D.S.C. is Lieut. Alan H. Easton, R.C.N.R., of Lachine, Que. Acting Leading Seaman Kenneth Alleyne Medford, Montreal, receives the D.S.M.

Mentioned in dispatches are: Lieut. Anthony G. Osburn, R.C.N.V.R., Vancouver; Sub-Lt. N. H. Chapman, R.C.N.V.R., Kingston; SPO. J. H. Allison, R.C.N.R., Halifax; ERA. R. I. Stuart, R.C.N.V.R., Ottawa; AB. G. J. Saunders, R.C.N.V.R., Montreal; Lieut. W. W. Hackney, Westphal, N.S.; Acting LS. John B. Bing, R.C.N.V.R., Regina; Lieut. A. G. S. Griffin, R.C.N.V.R., Hamilton; Mate J. A. McLeish, R.C.N.R.; Sigmund P. E. Dallaire, R.C.N.V.R., Montreal, and Chief ERA. (now Warrant Engineer) S. Clarke, R.C.N.R., Sydney, N.S.

UNCEASING WAR

Mrs. Macdonald said the honors list reflects successes by ships of the Royal Canadian Navy in the "unceasing war" against enemy submarines.

"Further details to those contained in the official citations," he said, "cannot, for operational and security reasons, be given. The war at sea is a grim one, being fought steadily and relentlessly. I think, however, the citations will, in themselves, show some of the aggressive work being undertaken by our ships against the enemy, as well as providing additional cause for pride in our men."

Below, the men found living quarters intact, and a half-eaten meal on tables. The seamen bedded in bunks and slept most of the next two days.

Although there was little left of the ship, the men managed to get up steam, but then found they were unable to start the engines. The bulkheads were leaking, so the men feared the wreck soon would sink, and they decided upon their farewell party.

"We roasted chicken, cooked vegetables and potatoes, and had plenty to drink," Mullins said. But the wreck held together, and the men passed two more days, whiling away time with the photograph, and playing whist.

Then they sighted lights and signaled for help.

"The ship must have thought we were a U-boat playing tricks. She circled out of range all night," Mullins recalled. "In the morning she came closer, and rescued us."

P.O. Walter Deveson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Deveson, McTavish Road, Sidney, has arrived in England to serve with the Royal Canadian Air Force. Born in Victoria, Walter attended North Saanich School and North Saanich High and was an electrician before he joined the air force. His brother, Cpl. A. C. Deveson, has been in England a year.

13 Seamen Held Farewell-to-Life Party on Derelict

LONDON (CP) — Thirteen torpedoed British merchant seamen, who escaped from a swamped lifeboat to a derelict half-ship in mid-Atlantic and there held a "farewell-to-life" party with abandoned stores of chicken and liquor, live to tell the tale.

British naval sources disclosed the story Sunday night. They said that when hope of rescue seemed in danger of sinking, the men held their party to the tunes of a portable phonograph. Later a passing ship picked them up.

Frederick Mullins, navy gunner, who was wounded while the merchantman was torpedoed, told the story this way:

"Thirteen of us were in the lifeboat which swamped as we pushed off, and we lost most of our stores."

After sighting the hulk and drifting away from it, the men finally boarded it.

"I remember seeing a grapefruit rolling to and fro on the deck and managed to grab it," Mullins said. "It tasted better than beer."

Below, the men found living quarters intact, and a half-eaten meal on tables. The seamen bedded in bunks and slept most of the next two days.

Although there was little left of the ship, the men managed to get up steam, but then found they were unable to start the engines. The bulkheads were leaking, so the men feared the wreck soon would sink, and they decided upon their farewell party.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK (AP) — The bull side of the stock market today lost many adherents, for no outstanding reason, and fractions to a point or so were subtracted from leaders. Transfers were around 500,000 shares.

There was a lightening of accounts in the recently bounding peace stocks, but the majority of the war infants failed to sit up and take nourishment.

Low-prices shares turned over in sizeable deals. Packard motors came out in one block of 10,700 at 2 1/2, and there was a 9,000-share trade in Curtis Publishing at 1 1/2, both unchanged.

In the Canadian section Lake Shore and Dome Mines eased fractions.

Dorothy Dix:

Even Children Long for A Measure of Privacy

Dear Miss Dix: I am 15 years old and have been keeping a diary. About a month ago my mother went into my bedroom, broke the lock and read it. I was very upset about it, although there was nothing in it that I would be ashamed for anybody to see, but I just couldn't believe my mother would do such a thing.

I have stopped keeping a diary, although I enjoyed doing it very much, because I know it would never be mine personally. I have been receiving mail, nothing in the letters important, but I treasured them. Yesterday I found out that my mother had gone through all my letters and read them, for she has been questioning me about every little silly thing in them, and I am red-eyed crying over it because I know now that the only way I can keep my personal things safe is to hide them.

If my mother would ask me, I would show her my letters after I have read them, but I want the pleasure of opening them first. But what turns me up is for her to sneak behind my back and spy on me. What can I do about it?

DAUGHTER:

Answer: Nothing, I am afraid, because mothers have a curious conceit that makes them always think that mother knows best, and that she has a right to pry into every corner of her children's minds and hearts, as well as their bureau drawers.

It is a terrible mistake that a mother makes when she does this, because it forever shuts her out from the child's confidence. It turns mother from a best friend into a snooper, and it raises a barrier between mother and child that she can never break down. And so I should advise this mother, before it is too late, to apologize to her little daughter and tell her that she didn't realize what she was doing when she searched her belongings, and that she will never do it again.

One of the things that we are all too prone to forget is that the fundamental longing of every human soul is for some degree of privacy. We want one secret chamber into which no one ever enters unless we, ourselves, open the door and invite them in. We never forgive those who do not respect this, but who crash our locks and force themselves upon our innermost thoughts and desires, and so despoil our holy of holies.

AN INSTINCTIVE QUALITY

And children, no less than townships, have this same longing for privacy. It is something instinctive, as you may see if you will watch even a group of tiny tots whispering together over some secret, though it may be nothing more than that they are going to have gingerbread for supper.

There is something that ministers to our dignity that recognizes our right as an individual, in having our letters given to us with their seals intact. Not one of us but who resents having our mail opened and read and come to us second-hand. We may be perfectly willing to read it aloud from the housetops after we have read it ourselves, but we demand that little gesture of independence, we crave that little thrill of expectancy that we lose if another hand has opened the envelope, if other eyes have read its contents before we get it. And dull, indeed, must be the parents who do not realize that half the pleasure their children get in receiving a letter is in opening it.

And how can any mother ever forget when she was 15 and she, too, kept a diary in which she wrote down her secret thoughts and hopes and aspirations and which she would have rather died than have any grownup read? For a mother to pry into a child's soul is like a rough hand tearing a folded bud to pieces. Something wonderful and beautiful has been destroyed that can never be restored. Oh, the pity of it!

Harris Heard 'Uncle Remus' Stories During His Boyhood

Joel Chandler Harris was born in Georgia in the days of negro slaves.

That fact had something to do with his later life. He learned to know the negroes on plantations near his home. They told him stories, and many years later he placed these stories in books.

Joel Chandler Harris

BRER RABBIT & BRER FOX

Joel, himself, was no young master of a plantation. Far from it! His mother was the breadwinner in the household and had to work hard to pay family expenses. Yet the boy was able to wander about and talk with negroes.

One negro was known as "Uncle Ben," and another as "Aunt Betsy." Aunt Betsy was popular with Joel and his friends because she gave ginger-cakes to children.

When he was 13 years old, the Civil War broke out, and this brought a big change for him. He left school and went to work. By earning his own living, he felt that he could save his mother from too much strain.

A small newspaper printed on a plantation hired him as "a boy to learn the printer's trade." The paper's circulation was about 2,000 copies.

Joel's task was to set type and he learned it quickly. Sometimes he set up paragraphs which he had composed himself, and these found their way into the paper.

That was the start of a long newspaper career. It was a good start because it carried education with it. There was a fine library in the plantation house, and Joel read many of the books in his free time.

After the war was over, Joel found a place as a printer on a newspaper in Macon. Later he was employed—this time as a writer—on a small magazine in New Orleans, the "Crescent Monthly."

After his return to Georgia, a position was offered to Harris—now 28 years old—on the Atlanta "Constitution." It was in this newspaper that his first "Uncle Remus" stories were published.

Long before, Harris had known a negro called Uncle Remus, and in the stories he pretended that the negro was speaking. Tales he had learned in his boyhood appeared in the series and later they were gathered for a book, "Uncle Remus: His Songs and His Sayings." The volume proved popular, and was followed by several others, among them "Nights with Uncle Remus."

Ottawa Barracks For Cwacs Cosy

By MARGARET ECKER

OTTAWA (CP)—War-crowded Ottawa is a place where living room is at a premium, but mothers don't have to sit up nights worrying about where daughter lives if she's posted to the capital with the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

The uniformed Cwac is cosy in a cheery barracks. She doesn't grab a cup of coffee and a sandwich at a lunch counter after work. Carefully-planned hot meals are waiting at the barracks. An army medical officer looks after her smallest ailment.

The Cwacs are working girls, but except for the few who live out of barracks they have none of the worries of most working girls living on small salaries in a strange city. Anyone who looks over Ottawa's four C.W.A.C. buildings can see that.

The new Argyle barracks are taking shape. The "huts" aren't ugly, utilitarian buildings, but are modern in design, with cheerful green trimmings, and look like two-story apartment blocks.

VICTORIA OFFICER

In her main floor office in one of the homes, Capt. Jean Raymond of Victoria said: "We do everything we can to make a home for the girls. After all, the welfare of her troops is any officer's first worry. We would never ask the girls to live in a place we wouldn't live in ourselves."

Up the ornate, carved staircase were the 16 rooms that house 80 women soldiers. Second Lieut. May Johnson of Winnipeg pointed to the fireplaces in every one. Most of the rooms have four double-decker iron beds, but books, pictures and radios make the rooms homier than most rooming-house quarters.

Some 200 more Cwacs are accommodated in the Glebe barracks, formerly Ottawa Ladies' College.

How to Combat Social Diseases

PRINCETON, N.J. — Every war brings with it the problem of social disease control among the members of our armed forces. The present war has proved no exception.

While the problem is primarily the worry of the military authorities, public opinion plays an important part in any program of control in areas surrounding army camps.

In the main, civil authorities have used two methods of controlling the spread of social disease. One is to regulate prostitution; the other is to try to eliminate it.

The question arises as to which of these two methods the civilian population wants, and with this in mind, the American Institute of Public Opinion put this question to a nationwide cross-section of the voting population:

"In order to control the spread of venereal disease around army camps, which of these plans do you favor?"

(a) — Require all prostitutes to take a regular weekly medical examination, and quarantine those who are diseased?

(b) — Conduct a police drive to get rid of all prostitutes?

Following are the results of the survey:

Require weekly medical examination, 55 per cent.

Conduct police drives to drive out all prostitutes, 45 per cent.

All Russian Soldiers Read Glad News Of Africa Successes

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian soldiers and workers have received by every available channel the glad news that powerful British and U.S. forces in Africa are striking effective blows at the Axis.

The news had been told before, in newspaper accounts and by radio announcements, but all agencies imparting information—press, radio, factory announcing systems and club gazettes—combined Sunday to tell fully and in detail the story of the arrival of the Americans and the smashing of the Axis Africa Corps.

More than 30,000,000 copies of Pravda alone went out to the people of Russia on all fronts, its headlines proclaiming the effectiveness of the Anglo-American-Soviet alliance.

ALL INFORMED — Army newspapers carried enthusiastic accounts, and it was safe to assume that not a Russian soldier was unaware of the second front being created in the Mediterranean.

The Russians pulled no punches when they told of their desire for a second front. Now they pulled no punches in telling of their pleasure.

The impression prevailed that for days Russia had been holding back, waiting to see whether the African operations are a large-scale campaign which will have a decisive influence on the course of the war.

Sunday that reserve was cast aside, and Russia's 200,000,000 citizens were informed fully of the Allied success in Africa and its far-reaching implications.

Americans and Britons felt a new warmth in conversations with Russian people.

ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

Iron Horse Faster When "Under Wraps"

Nobody would dream of racing a horse under blankets, but for power and speed, the iron horses of our great railway systems always run "under wraps." A Johns-Manville engineer explained it to your reporter this way: "You've probably walked alongside one of these huge locomotives as it stood puffing and snorting in the station, and marveled at its tremendous, pent-up power. What you may not have realized is the important role modern insulating materials play in developing and maintaining this power. You see, a blanket of Johns-Manville insulation around the boiler of a locomotive prevents heat waste and makes it possible to build up the enormous amount of steam required to haul a long-train of loaded cars."

Insulation for locomotives is only one of many Johns-Manville products used by Canadian railroads. J-M is proud that through these products it is making a contribution to the magnificent job our railroads are performing in these critical times.

City Church Bells Celebrate Victory

Bells and chimes of Victoria churches, with British and Australian church bells which have been silent during wartime, rang Sunday in commemoration of the British victory in north Africa. In Britain the bells of all cathedrals on order of Prime Minister Churchill were rung for the first time since they were designated to announce invasion. In British Columbia, mayors and reeves of many cities and municipalities requested the church bells be rung, and in Victoria church bells and chimes, which each Sunday call citizens to worship, were rung longer than usual to celebrate the victory.
